(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The proposed 25 per cent tax on
"high priced tickets to big boxing matches was a storm center in the house ways and means committee today as the committee put finishing touches on a bill calling for a $235,820,000 tax reduction.

Even in war days no 25 per cent tax was ever imposed as a levy on a single business and fight promoters deluged Chairman Green of the committee with telegrams of protest.

Some blamed Secretary of the Treasury Mellon for suggesting that any one who could pay $40 for a prize fight ticket—as in the Dempsy-Tunney fight, in Chicago—could also stand to pay a 10 per cent tax thereon.

The committee thought the idea
so good that it voted 13 to 3 to

GOVERNMENT GRANTED DELAY IN CLARK HEARING

Giles Relates How He Saved Life Over Sea

Grabs Gas Line as Tailspin
Hurls Him from Cockpit
And Climbs Back

(By United Press)
SAN SIMON, Calif., Nov. 23.—
Thrown from the cockpit of his plane almost 500 miles at sea, Capt. Frederick A. Giles, whose attempted hop to Hawaii met with failure, saved himself from being tossed from the plane when he grabbed a gas line over his head, he told Roy Summers, postmaster
here.

When the plane went into a sudden tailspin, Giles, not strapped in,
was tossed from his seat, according to the account of the flight made to Summers by Giles.

"I grabbed the gas line and worked my way to my seat," he said Giles related. "The plane was at an altitude of 4000 feet when it turned upside down. By the time I righted the ship she was only a short distance above the water."

"The terrific force of the storm made the plane creak and groan and had I been flying a monoplane instead of a biplane it would never have stood the gaff."

Empty 300 Gallons Gas
"After I had righted the 'Wanda',
I emptied 300 gallons of gasoline into the sea to lighten the load, then headed inland as all my charts had been lost in the spin."

Giles, who was 600 miles southwest of San Francisco, according to his reckoning, at the time of the

MURDERS WIFE IN FRONT OF CHILDREN

YUBA CITY, Cal., Nov. 23.—
Claude Frye, 55, Sutter City rancher, shot and killed his wife, Rose Frye, 50, in front of three of their children at their home near here last night.

Frye then turned the rifle upon himself sending a bullet through his neck. He was in a critical condition at the Rideout hospital in Marysville today.

Frye was crazed over a divorce suit filed against him by his wife, it is believed.

Negotiations For Loan To Japanese Almost Complete

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Negotiations for a $30,000,000 Morgan loan to the Japanese controlled South Manchurian Railway company are practically completed,
the United Press learned today.

The fact that the negotiations
continued following the recent visit to the state department of Thomas Lamont, Morgan partner, is interpreted in some quarters to mean the U. S. government will not, for international political reasons, block the proposed loan.

CONVENTION DELAY SOUGHT BY ILLINOIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The state of Illinois, through Gov. Len Small, may appeal to the Republican and Democratic national committee to postpone their national conventions "so that Illinois may be properly represented."

This state is in the embarrassing situation of having had its primary law declared unconstitutional by a lower court. If the decision is upheld by the supreme court, a special session of the legislature must be called to pass a new primary law. It is believed this cannot be accomplished in time to select delegates to the national conventions by next June.

The plan to have the national conventions "wait for Illinois" was suggested at a Republican factional conference here and if successful would mean a presidential campaign lasting only two or three months instead of from June to November.

Quartet Accused of Throw- ing Bombs Dies Before Firing Squad

(By United Press)
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23.—Four men, charged with trying to assassinate former President Alvaro Obregon by throwing bombs at his automobile, were executed here today before a firing squad.

The men executed were Miguel Austin Projauez, a Catholic priest;
his brother, Humberto Projauez;
Louis Aergura Vilchiz and Antonio
Tirado.

The first three men were arrested Monday. Tirado was arrested after the attempt to assassinate Obregon November 13. He was badly wounded at the time. A fifth man declared to be implicated—Lamberto Ruiz—died Sunday of wounds
he received in trying to escape with Tirado.

Thousands Hear Shots
The executions were carried out at 11 a. m., at police headquarters in the center of the city. Several thousand persons gathered outside heard the shots and many people saw the penalty inflicted.

All of the executed men died bravely. Father Projauez knelt in prayer just before the firing squad shot him.

Police said all the men confessed last night their complicity in the plot to assassinate Obregon—al-

REMUS' PROSECUTOR GETS DEATH THREAT

COURTROOM, CINCINNATI, O.,
Nov. 23.—Opening of court was delayed this afternoon when Judge Shook was handed a letter addressed to Remus and threatening the lives of Franklin L. Dodge, the defendant's arch-enemy, and Prosecutor Taft.

The court ordered the letter placed in the custody of the sheriff. It was understood the writer said he had left San Francisco three days ago and was enroute to carry out his threats.

A jailer intercepted the letter and when Remus read it he handed it over to the prosecutor, who, in turn, gave it to the court.

DEATH OF STANFORD STUDENT IS PROBED

OAKLAND, Nov. 23.—Investigation was started today by Alameda county authorities into the death of Donald P. Jacobs, Stanford university senior, who received fatal injuries Sunday morning while attending a party in celebration of Stanford's victory in the game with the University of California.

The manner in which Jacobs was injured remained a mystery.
He had attended a party at the Orinda Country club and was absent for five hours. When he reappeared, stumbling through a rear entrance, he was badly bruised and his skull afterwards was discovered to be fractured.

(By United Press)
SING SING PRISON, Ossining,
N. Y., Nov. 23.—Mrs. Josephine
Brown visited her daughter, Ruth Brown Snyder, today, a few hours after Mrs. Snyder learned that the week of January 9 she must die in the electric chair.

As Mrs. Brown approached Mrs.
Snyder's cell in the death house,
Mrs. Snyder stepped forward to meet her. Then she covered her mouth with a handkerchief and gazed squarely into her mother's eyes. Neither spoke.

Executions January 12?

The executions of Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray probably will take place at 11 p. m., on January 12. The death warrants provide that the warden may car-

during the week of the ninth, but the custom has been to select

URGE HEAVY TARIFF ON ARGENTINE CORN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A fifty per cent increase in the tariff on Argentine corn was urged on President Coolidge today by Gov-

An increase is necessary, he said, because of competition with Argentine farmers, who can sell more cheaply on the Pacific Coast than farmers of the Middle Western corn belt.

Full Winter Of Court Activity Is Anticipated

Attorneys Are Confused by Long Series of Inter-
Related Cases

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Hearing of the complaints against Sheldon Clark, of Chicago,
vice president of the Sinclair Refining company, on a charge of conspiracy to influence the Fall-Sinclair jury, today was continued from next Friday to December 5,
the day when contempt proceedings against him and five others will begin here.

The continuance was approved by
U. S. Commissioner Needham
Turnage upon motion of Neil Burkinshaw, assistant to U. S.
District Attorney Peyton Gordon.

Under $10,000 Bond

Clark is under $10,000 bond,
while H. Mason Day, another Sinclair lieutenant, is under $25,000 bond on a similar complaint.

Arrangements were made today
by U. S. Attorney Peyton Gordon for services for contempt citations against the six men named in Justice Siddons' order.

William J. Burns, his son, Sherman, and Charles S. Veitach, head of the Burns Baltimore office, will appear here Monday in the office of their attorney, Charles A.
Douglas, to receive their citations.

Harry F. Sinclair and Day will be served by a marshal in New York and Clark will be served similarly in Chicago.

Government counsel prepared today to face a full winter of court action, growing from various phases of the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome case and subsequent jury tampering charges.

Indictments are expected soon in the jury tampering case, adding another to the long series of interrelated cases. Lawyers themselves are confused.

Ask Plane Search For Missing Grand Canyon Explorers

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—An appeal to the secretary of war to form searching party of airplanes was made here today when failure to hear from the Bray-Pathe expedition in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado caused apprehension for the safety of the 12 men who left Green River, Utah, November 9, to cruise the treacherous gorge.

The appeal was made through
Mrs. J. R. Bray, wife of the well-known motion picture explorer and one of the backers of the trip, the purpose of which was to chart the gorge for geographical study, to secure the first motion pictures of its grandeur and to test out a new government radio device for sending messages from

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—Gangdom replied with bombs and bullets today to the Chicago police ultimatum that the gunmen
must keep the peace.

Police Sgt. Tom Lynch was wounded critically in a running battle with an automobile load of gangsters.

A few hours earlier a bomb had blown out the front of a west side resort of the Bertische-Skidmore-Zutis vice syndicate, with which Joseph Aiello and his brothers are allied.

The bombing apparently was a warning by the cohorts of Scar-face Al Caponi that Aiello's attempt to usurp the underworld throne of Caponi would meet the same answer that previous revolts against the powerful gangster chief have received—death.

May Have Been Accident
Chief of Police Michael Hughes said after an investigation that he believed it possible Lynch had his companions in the police car.

The pursuit of the gangster car by police was called one of the

LABOR CHIEF FLAYS COURTS FOR SETTING ASIDE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION, STATE LAWS

By WILLIAM GREEN
President American Federation of Labor
(Written for the United Press)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The American Federation of Labor and its 4,000,000 members have become alarmed at the action of certain judges in setting aside the federal constitution and state laws in order to defeat the normal activities of the wage earners. Not only do these judges prohibit wage earners from doing things that are lawful but in our opinion they violate the thirteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States in order to aid unfair employers harass and destroy the rights of the wage earners.

Each injunction goes further than the one issued before. Judge Schoonmaker, in Pittsburgh, enjoined miners and their families, who had been evicted from their homes, from appealing the cases to a higher court and also restrained any person from furnishing appeal bonds. This was a direct violation of the Pennsylvania state laws.

Forbids Giving Aid

Judge J. M. Langham, of Indiana, Pa., county court, issued an order November 17 on the application of the Clearfield Bituminous corporation which forbade the United Mine Workers from giving aid to the union men and their families, which includes food, money and clothing, and prohibits the miners and their wives from assembling and singing at the Magyar Presbyterian church at Rossiter.

Money cannot even be given to feed hungry babies and children. Federal Judge William Gribbs, in the southern district of New York, issued an injunction October 24 which in our opinion violates the thirteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States. The order issued by him forbids certain wage earners to "go on strike against any employer or against any product or refuse to work for any particular employer or upon any particular product."

Justice Brandeis said in a similar decision made by the supreme court of the United States that it reminded of involuntary servitude.

Instances of Power

These injunctions are most glaring instances of the power assumed by judges to override the constitution of the United States and state laws by issuing injunctions.

Many other injunctions have been issued in various parts of the United States, all of them having for their one purpose the protection of unfair employers who sought to decrease wages and lengthen the work day.

We propose to go to congress and seek legislation that will limit and define the equity powers of the courts. Congress created the federal courts and, according to the constitution of the United States it has the power to limit and define their jurisdiction.

Used Against Labor

When the bill proposing the Sherman anti-trust act was before congress, not only its author but others on the floors of both the senate and the house denied that it would in any way affect labor, agricultural or horticultural organizations. But it was no sooner passed than it was used against both labor and farm organizations.

Labor then sought an amendment and in 1914 the Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law became a law.

Section 6 of the Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust act follows: "That labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce. Nothing contained in the anti-trust laws shall be construed to forbid the existence and operation of labor, agricultural or horticultural organizations, instituted for the purposes of mutual help and not having capital stock or conducted for profit, or to forbid or restrain individual members of such organizations from lawfully carrying out the legitimate objects thereof; nor shall such organizations, or the members thereof, be construed to be illegal combinations or conspirators in restraint of trade, under the anti-trust laws."

No Restraining Order

Section 6 provides that no restraining order or injunction shall be granted by any court of the United States unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or to property right and then adds:

"And no such restraining order or injunction shall prohibit any person or persons, whether singly or in concert, from terminating any relation of employment, or from ceasing to perform any work or labor, or from recommending, advising, or persuading others by peaceful means so to do."

Although this is the law of the land, no more attention is paid to it by some judges than if it had been a resolution adopted by the American Federation of Labor or any labor organization.

We feel that the great majority of the people of the United States are opposed to this violation of the federal constitution and the state laws by some judges and that they will be helpful in inducing congress to limit the jurisdiction of the equity courts.

Same As Slave

When a wage earner cannot refuse to work for any employer who asks him and is subject to a prison sentence or is forced to pay damages for refusing, he then becomes a slave.

Labor is fighting against such assumption of power by the judges and will continue to do so until every right guaranteed by the constitution of the United States and the laws of the state and nation may be freely exercised by all the people of our country.

QUEZON URGES NEW FILIPINO RELATIONSHIP

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate and leader in the independence movement, favors a "senior and junior" alliance with this country.

For the first time in his public life, Quezon, who last night spoke at the twenty-first anniversary dinner of the Economic club, of New York, considered an arrangement other than complete and immediate independence for the Philippines.

Keep Trade Advantages
Quezon said he believed the "senior and junior" alliance, whereby the United States would have its present trade advantages, as advocated by Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, would be workable between the United States and the Philippines. This would clearly fix the relationship between the two countries.

"I don't see any reason why an agreement cannot be reached between the United States and the Philippines whereby our present trade relations should be maintained, whatever the political condition may be in the future," said Quezon.

No Responsibilities
"You would have all the advantages you now have in the Philippines without the responsibilities. You would continue to use the Philippines as a distributing center for your trade with the Orient and you also would occupy such naval stations as you think necessary for the protection of your trade."

"I believe that some time the United States should give us our independence, but if you don't think we should have it now we think that you should at least be getting ready to keep the promise of independence that you have made us so often."

Police News

Leonard Galli, 28, who resides at Fourth and Lacy streets, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was fined $50 in city police court yesterday. He was arrested Monday night by city officers while in a Santa Ana second hand store. Galli paid the fine.

Prowlers were reported seen in the neighborhood of 207 South Birch street, early last night, but officers who were called were unable to find them.

Richard Winchell, 414 West Sixth street, reported the theft of his machine from a garage in Anaheim early last night.

Charged with being drunk, E. Aguilas, 40, resident of Lincoln street, was arrested last night by Officer W. A. Swain and lodged in the county jail.

An automobile owned by F. A. Squires, Orange, was stolen at 6:30 p. m. yesterday from near the Plaza in Orange, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office and at the city police station.

RETURNED HERE ON CHARGES OF FRAUD

Alleged to have departed suddenly from the Hotel Finley here, without going through the formality of paying his board bill, O. Farrington, 54, Los Angeles, was arrested in Los Angeles, last night and returned to Santa Ana.

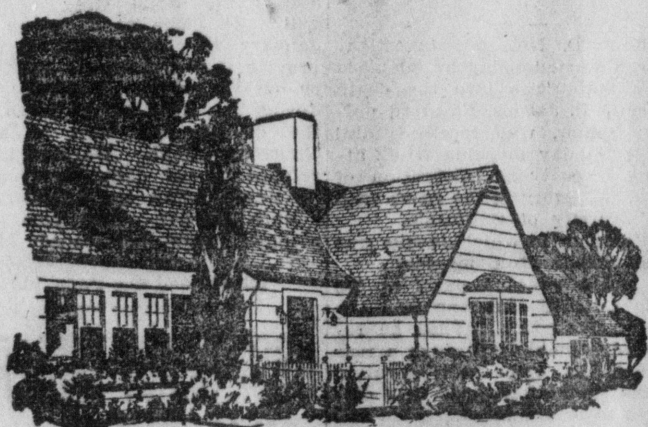

He was arraigned before Justice Kenneth Morrison this morning and trial set for November 29, at 10 a. m. Bail was fixed at $500, which he was unable to make.

Farrington was in the Los Angeles jail on a similar charge, officers said, and the case against him there was dismissed so that he could be brought here to face a charge of defrauding an innkeeper.

The Plea of the Unbuilt House

By ANDREW L. CARMICAL

I am the unbuilt house—build me therefore into a home. Build me with loving hands, with eager heart. Build me for eternity. For as you build, so shall I stand, ever over you, ever protecting, day after day, under the sun and rain, in the long nights of cold and whirling wind. Build me to last. For I shall be your haven and your children's haven. Build me strong—and beautiful. Let me sit back from the road, a figure of repose, reflecting character without presumption, dignity without restraint. Let me express the good taste and integrity united in you who dwell inside. Clothe me in color. Let nature breathe its goodness wherever it may reach. The protection of trees, the affection of vines and the warm smile of flowers—these things I need in abundance. And let the friendly welcome of the latchstring trace its joyous way through the lines and colors of every room. Let me have sunshine and laughter. Build me now, while the years are young, while we can both be happy and useful.

GRAND JURY IN L. A. IS GIVEN RYAN CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Sensational charges of corrupt practices in the district attorney's office, hurled by Deputy District Attorney Joseph Ryan, in a letter of resignation and answers to them were before the grand jury today for consideration.

Ryan, who came into the national limelight during the investigation and trial of Almee Semple McPherson in connection with the famous "kidnaping" plot, aimed a heavy barrage at Chief Deputy District Attorney Harold Davis who replied by stating that Ryan was ambitious to become district attorney.

"I have placed Ryan's resignation and my answer before the jury and told the members they can do as they wish," Davis said, adding that Ryan became disgruntled some months ago when he was transferred to Long Beach. He declared that "Ryan should have resigned long ago if he were 'burned up' about the handling of the cases he mentions."

In his resignation Ryan mentioned both the McPherson case and an assault case in connection with a fist fight between members of a committee of Julian Petroleum stockholders.

District Attorney Asa Keyes is reported to be on a hunting trip in the mountains.

A WORD OF COMFORT
Strange as it may seem, you find in life what you are looking for. There is enough kindness and meanness to be found by one who seeks for it to so pervert his judgment that he suspects even what appears to be good and holy. Likewise, he is keen to discover evidences of high motive and earnest endeavor and wholesome impulse and loving kindness, will be convinced at heart mankind is decent and upright and true, and that God is loving, just and righteous.

From the depths of your sorrow look for what will assure you of God's care, and you will find it.

BANKER TALKS TO POLY SENIOR GIRLS

Necessary qualifications for becoming a stenographer include a high school education, a sense of responsibility, an ability to work accurately and speedily, and neatness, according to Omar Channing of the First National bank who spoke to the senior girls at the Santa Ana high school yesterday afternoon. Channing's talk was one of a series on vocational training being presented at the high school this semester.

Other things required of a secretary or stenographer, according to Channing, are that she have a good memory, that she be willing to learn, that she be prompt, that her first impression upon a business man be good, that she have a wide acquaintance among business people, and that she have a general knowledge of business methods and terms.

Channing pointed out that promotions in clerical work are slow and that the preference is still given men.

JUNIOR DIVISION IN DEMAND FOR INDEPENDENCE

J. A. Cranston, W. H. Spurgeon and J. F. Burke were appointed by the directors of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, in session this afternoon, as a committee to study suggested plans for rearrangement of the agreement between the senior and junior divisions of the booster body.

With Harry Westover as spokesman for the junior group, the senior directors were requested to give the junior division permission for the official use of the name "Junior Chamber of Commerce," the body now being officially merely a division of the senior chamber. In behalf of the junior division, Westover also requested that the junior organization be given the privilege of using all dues from junior members for carrying on the work of the division.

Want Forum Meetings
The further request was made that the senior division hold open forum meetings in which members of the junior division could participate. At present all public forum meetings of the chamber are held exclusively by the junior body.

A quorum of the senior board was not present and official action on the requests was not possible. Appointment of the committee was made for the purpose of placing the three men in position to submit a report and recommendations at the next regular meeting of the senior board.

Ridley Smith, former secretary of the junior division and one of the active members, and others, speaking on the subject, expressed the opinion that more frequent public meetings of the senior division would result in the creation of greater interest in the work of the organization. Comment was made on the possibility of interesting more young men of the city in chamber of commerce work by having them associated with the junior division.

Discuss Junior College
Ralph McFadden and H. A. Lake, representing a committee from the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County, appeared before the board with reference to the establishment of an Orange county, of a junior college. The committee desired information on the attitude the Santa Ana chamber would assume with respect to promotion of plans for a county college. Absence of a quorum made it impossible for the board to act on the point.

H. A. Gardner tendered his resignation as a member of the board and J. F. Burke was selected to fill the vacancy.

FINDS SKELETON IN REAR OF POOL HALL

While searching in the rear room of a Delhi pool hall, last night, for liquor, Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter got a "thrill" that he will remember for a long time, according to a story he was telling today around the court house.

Carter said he explored a store room in the rear of the building and was looking into boxes and pool room equipment when he suddenly saw a complete skeleton of a man lying on the floor. He backed out the door into the other room.

In broken English, a Mexican explained: "It is nothing. Belongs to our lodge. Part of the initiation," or at least that is what Carter understood him to say. The skeleton was left in the room.

Cleared On Bad Check Charges

Because evidence against him was deemed insufficient, Oliver R. Gridley, 38, 313 East Pine street, Montebello, gained a dismissal of his case in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday afternoon. He was charged with issuing a bank check of $10, with intent to defraud.

The complaining witness in the case was W. Jones, Santa Ana. The check was said to have been given Jones on November 12.

AUTO DEALERS ARRAIGNED IN JUSTICE COURT

Three men, charged with violations of the state motor vehicle law, concerning the sale and purchase of used automobiles, were arraigned before Justice Kenneth Morrison today. They were O. M. Thompson, of the Broadway apartments, his son, A. P. Thompson, Second and Van Ness street, and Aubrey Smith, 319 East Fifth street.

The two Thompsons were arrested Monday by state traffic officers and Smith was taken into custody late yesterday afternoon. Trial for the three was set for November 30, at 10 a. m. A. P. Thompson and Smith were released on their own recognizance and O. M. Thompson had bail of $250 which was demanded.

According to the complaints in the case, the three men, operators of a used car lot at Second and Bush streets failed to deliver state certificates when cars were sold, allowed machines to be operated without proper license plates and had cars in their possession on which the manufacturers' numbers had been eradicated.

GRAND JURY WILL MEET ON FRIDAY

Will the Orange county grand jury meet November 25 or November 28? Conflicting newspaper stories on this point today threw a qualm of fear into court house officials when it was learned that the earlier date is the one set. It was feared that the latter one had been used in summoning the jurors.

The spectre of Superior Judge Homer G. Ames waiting patiently for a jury which failed to appear, worried the clerks for a while until it was definitely established that formal invitations had been issued naming November 25 as the date.

Newspapermen in Orange county are wondering how far the grand jury will go in its investigations. They are excluded from the sessions and the job of getting the facts is one that is seldom relished by any but experienced sleuths.

The special investigation of the sheriff's office and county jail last summer is expected to be the last of the startling analyses of county conditions for the present and it is predicted that the routine matters which come before the jury will not be spiced with other spectacular disclosures.

SIX JAPANESE PLEAD GUILTY TO POSSESSION

Orange county will be $3,000 richer today because of the raid conducted by Sheriff Sam Jernigan and his men against a Japanese saki plant, at Hansen and Kattella roads, Monday night, when seven Japanese were arrested and approximately $100,000 worth of bootleg liquor confiscated.

Six of the men arrested pleaded guilty to possession of liquor charges in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday afternoon and each was fined $500, with an alternate of spending one day in jail for every dollar of the fine. The seventh man, H. Kimora, 18, Los Angeles, escaped when the sheriff's office did not file charges against him, having learned, it was said, that he was not implicated.

Those fined were: Y. Fugal, 38, Stanton; I. Yoshi, 44, Brawley; D. Goto, 22, Stanton; K. Myoshi, 23, Stanton; S. Nishi, 44, Stanton, and H. Ike, 23, Stanton.

None of the Japanese was able to pay his fine at the time of sentence, but all stated they expected the money for their release here today, from Los Angeles.

Deputy sheriffs under F. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff, spent much of yesterday afternoon destroying the huge plant, which an official check-up shows contained: 2,443 new quart bottles, 3100 pounds of rice, 800 gallons of saki, 10,000 gallons of saki mash, 16 empty barrels, three capping machines, 200 gross of new bottle tops, one new still, one press and three large cookers.

NEW FAD STARTS AT LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

Fads and foibles come and go at the Santa Ana high school.

Not long ago some of the girls at the school started the townspeople by appearing in the halls of learning minus their stockings.

"And now," declare members of the engineering club, "now that the girls have had their turn we want ours."

So the club members have taken to wearing bright blue sweaters with gold stripes at the wrist and waist, with the club's emblem, a triangle enclosing a shield with a yellow hammer in the center, upon the arm.

According to John Dunlap, member of the club, the sweaters have done much to brighten the atmosphere at the high school and to turn the attention of the students from bare legged femininity to higher things.

BREA BANKER DEFENDANT IN COURT ACTION

M. J. Wolfe, former vice president of the First National bank of Brea, and now in custody, awaiting prosecution on a federal charge of embezzlement, is today a defendant in another court action, arising from the crashing of an airplane, the building of which he is alleged to have helped to finance.

The plane was sold to W. V. Burson, whose proposed entry in the recent Hawaiian race was cancelled by the crash of the ship in a test flight between San Diego and Oakland, two navy flyers being killed in the wreck. Burson has brought suit in the superior court for the recovery of $12,500 in cash and notes he gave for the plane, and cancellation of the purchase agreement, which would shift the liability from his shoulders to those of the defendants.

W. D. Tremaine, Brea business man and aviation enthusiast, and Harry Becker, complete the trio of defendants. Burson alleges that the three conducted a secret partnership in building the plane, but he dealt with Tremaine alone. The First National bank, of Brea, is joined with the defendants, having advanced funds for the construction of the plane.

Burson claims that his contract called for a ship fit for an Oriental flight and that the builders assumed all liability during the test flights. He asks cancellation of $5500 in notes and return of $700 in cash. The case was originally filed in Los Angeles.

CITIZENS OF LAGUNA BEACH PAY TRIBUTE TO ARTIST AT RECEPTION TUESDAY NIGHT

By HORACE FINE

In proportion to population interested, Col. Charles Lindbergh received no greater ovation on his return from his epochal flight across the big pond than was accorded William Wendt, artist of international repute, upon his return to Laguna Beach yesterday afternoon from an eight months tour of European countries.

The noted painter was completely overcome by the sincerity of the greetings accorded him by his home people when he arrived at the art gallery a little after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when he found a large group of his associates and friends awaiting his arrival. Mrs. Wendt also shared in the honors.

With a group of little girls strewn his path with roses, the artist marched from the street to the art gallery amid the cheering and hand clapping of a large group of Laguna people who had assembled for an outpouring of their pent up enthusiasm and admiration for the man who has been instrumental in bringing the "beach that is different" to the attention of the world as the location of one of the greatest "art colonies" on the Pacific Coast.

School was dismissed for the afternoon and it was children from the children's theater that threw petals in front of the distinguished citizen as he wended his way to the art gallery. The marine band of the beach city was present and played a number of pieces. Welcome back to the scene of his work was extended by Mayor Thomas A. Cummings, and Miss Anna Hills and Karl Yens extended greetings from the artists. During the reception four hundred residents grasped the hand of the returned traveler and assured him of their pleasure and delight at his home coming.

The greeting extended into the evening hours and concluded with a banquet at the White house at which approximately 150 men and women attended in compliment to

Y. W. C. A. GIRLS TAKE PART IN NATIONAL FEED

The dapper, pretty business girls of the United States were compared with the business girls of other nations last night at the Y. W. C. A. national dinner held at the Y. M. C. A. building, when Mrs. John Tesson made the principal address. Mrs. Tesson is president of the board of directors of the local Y. W. C. A.

The program presented at the dinner was similar to programs presented at the dinners which were held yesterday by Y. W. C. A.s throughout the United States. Besides Mrs. Tesson's talk, Miss Dorothy Lutz presented several violin solos with Miss Adele Lutz as accompanist. Sally Lee Soles sang and Ione Tunison Peck accompanied her. Group singing was led by Miss Irene Loose, county director of music, and the accompaniment was played by Miss Abbe Chapman. Mabel Pruitt gave a reading.

A special greeting sent to the club by Mrs. Hyalite Nikirk of Pasadena, president of the national business girls' association, was read by Miss Henrietta Lykke.

The committee responsible for the dinner and the program included Miss Blanche Yokum, president of the Wrycende Maedgen club of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Dorothy Thurston, Miss Hattie Bell Wall and Miss Daisy Anderson.

W. A. Griffith, commenting on the earlier pictures by the artist said they evidenced his sense of beauty and design, and that his later pictures had emphasized his mastery of the reproduction on canvas of things he saw.

Miss Anna Hills, president of the Laguna Beach Art association, paid the guest the compliment of declaring that the display at the art gallery never was complete without one of his pictures, and pointed out that while other beach communities have had big celebrations of commercial achievements none had had the distinction of Laguna Beach in paying homage to a real artist and man who had brought the community such fame as had resulted from the location of Wendt there and his reproduction on canvas of incomparable subjects existing in that vicinity.

Anthony Anderson, art critic of the Los Angeles Times, said that Wendt is the only artist who has ever been accorded the privilege of a series of exhibitions at the Chicago Art Gallery.

Earl Stendahl, of the Stendahl galleries at the Ambassador in Los Angeles, recounted deceptive tactics he used in getting to New York to greet Wendt on his return from overseas and how he pursued them in order to get the artist down to Laguna Beach yesterday afternoon for the programmed reception.

"The influence of today has its effect on tomorrow," said Frank C. Hogue, editorial writer for the Los Angeles Times, in pointing out that while Laguna Beach had always contained those features that make it attractive today, artists, the beach never would have been the art center it is today and its beauty would never have been appreciated fully had it not been that Wendt and other artists pioneered the unfolding of the beauty spots.

Hogue has visited some of the big art displays in European countries and he declared the more he saw of the work of the foreign artists the more he appreciated the work of Wendt.

"Wendt is not only a master of color and technique, but he has eyes that recognize beauty and the ability to reproduce what he sees," said the editorial writer. He deplored the passing of "old Laguna" and said that when grandchildren of those present wanted to see "old Laguna" they would have to go to the pictures painted by Wendt.

Mrs. Seward Simons, prominent leader among women of Los Angeles and Laguna Beach, in presentation of the biography of the honored guest, said he was born in Germany, and came to the United States when 15 years of age, at which time he had made up his mind to be an artist. Pointing out that he was self-made artist, and that he developed his talents under many difficulties, Mrs. Simons said that the generosity of the family disclosed no relative of artistic temperament. Reciting that he came to California in 1898, she stressed the point that his success as an artist had made him known internationally and she referred to the fact that his canvases are permanent in many of the larger and most important galleries of foreign lands.

Feeling deeply the honor conferred upon him by his neighbors and friends, and overcome by the profusion of compliments paid his talents, Wendt could say but little when he was called upon by Toastmaster Champion to respond to the addresses preceding. He briefly stated that he was glad to get back, that he appreciated the courtesies shown him, and that modern art, as he had witnessed it in European countries, did not meet his approbation.

KIWANIS CLUB OF BUENA PARK HEARS EDITOR

Taking the Kiwanis motto, "We Build," as the subject of his talk, J. Frank Burke, editor of The Register, addressed members of the Buena Park Kiwanis club at last night's dinner meeting in the Manchester cafe.

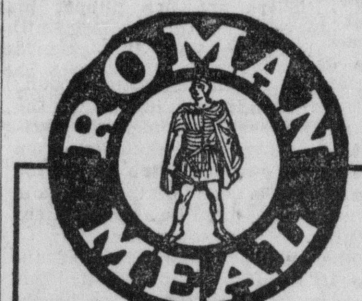

Mr. Burke stressed the importance of character and declared that among the things that impressed him in Southern California and Orange county was the character of the citizens.

The speaker told of some of this county's assets, but declared that the greatest asset of the county was the character of its residents.

The friendliness of the people of this district was commented on by Mr. Burke, who said that though he had been here but a comparatively short time, the people had made him feel that he was a part of the community.

The speaker predicted that Orange county's growth would continue and that Buena Park would secure a goodly share of the new residents coming here from other sections of the country.

John Siddall, president of the Buena Park organization, presided. Henry Schmitz, Buena Park publisher and member of the club, was program chairman. Thirty members were present.

FORMER POLITICAL LEADERS IN CALIFORNIA SCATTERED TO ALL LINES OF INDUSTRY

By CLEM WHITAKER

Staff Correspondent Santa Ana Register
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—In California's statehouse, the cynical learners have been known to wager on the probable life expectancy, of the man or men then in power.

"Less power and longer life" is the motto of "the old soldiers" in the capitol. They have seen hundreds led to the political guillotine after a short spell of dominance. To them, each notable's photograph, or painting, hanging in the great corridors of state, is a tombstone.

TUSTIN URGES COUNTY BOARD TO RENDER AID

Storm waters descending on the southwest portion of Tustin had resulted today in a delegation from that city calling on the board of supervisors at their meeting yesterday, where it was decided that an engineer's investigation should be made as a first step in relieving the situation. H. C. Head, Santa Ana attorney, presented the case to the board.

Supervisors Willard Smith and George Jeffrey have the matter in their hands and it is probable that, following a technical study of the flood condition, a protection district may be formed.

That the drainage problem is serious and is getting worse year by year was pointed out by Smith, who explained that during the 10-so-called dry years recently ended, many orchards had been set out and natural water courses disrupted. Hillsides have come under cultivation and, as a result, the flow from the slopes is no longer kept in check by undergrowth. There is more water to be taken care of and less efficient means of providing for its disposal, he pointed out.

Individual ranchers have solved their own problems in many cases, he said, but often this has resulted in making the situation worse for their neighbors. This type of protection never will settle the problem, he declared.

NEW SUBDIVISION OPENS TOMORROW

With plans accepted and approved by the city council, 40 lots in the Parton-Fairview Terrace subdivision in the south end of the city, will be placed on sale here tomorrow, through the real estate firm operated by Carl Mock, it was announced today.

The opening of this section will officially open Parton street between Fairview avenue and Wilshire street, although paving and other street improvement will not be put in for several weeks.

The property on sale is owned by Roy Russell and C. E. Downie and has been held off the market for a number of years, while property surrounding it has built up extensively during the past several years.

"We feel that business conditions in Santa Ana are good at present and that the opening of the tract, which will add materially to Santa Ana's growth in that section of the city," Downie said today.

GETS $50 FINE FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

With charges against him reduced from driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor to reckless driving, Edward Scott, 35, 112 North Van Ness street, pleaded guilty in City Recorder J. F. Talbot's court yesterday afternoon and was fined $50.

Unable to pay the fine, he was lodged in the county jail to spend one day for each dollar of the fine.

Scott was arrested Monday night by Officer Wolford, after the machine he was driving, crashed into a car owned by Mrs. Lon Taylor, 715 West Second street. The accident occurred in front of the Taylor home.

FRANCIS WILLARD TO PRESENT PLAY

The colorful story of Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves as told in opera, will be seen here December 1 and 2 when students of the Frances E. Willard junior high school will present the operetta in the Santa Ana high school auditorium. Miss Esther Jean Davis is directing the performance.

One of the most interesting phases of the operetta is the dancing in which the chorus is clad in unusually beautiful oriental costumes, appropriate to the story. The dancers have been trained for their parts by Miss Villa Newbold, a ninth grade student, who has succeeded exceptionally well in her work.

The girls taking part in the ballet are Villa Newbold, Edna Hicks, Winona Humphrey, Eva Wright, Viola Stafford, Marie Rockwell and Norma Sittin.

LOCAL STORE DEFRAUDED BY CHECK ARTIST

Giving checks, even blank ones, to strangers is bad business, the police will tell anyone and such generosity exercised here yesterday meant the loss of $35 to a Santa Ana business house.

A clever forger, using the "blank check" scheme yesterday afternoon passed the worthless check at the Daley grocery store, 417 West Fourth street, according to a police report.

The stranger, who gave his name as Alfred Peterson, and addressed as the Y. M. C. A., walked into the Peoples Finance and Thrift company, Third and Sycamore streets, and asked for a blank check, stating he wanted one that would fit into a photograph machine he had. A clerk tore out one of the company's blank checks, scratched out the name of the company with ink and gave it to Peterson.

Several minutes later, Peterson appeared at the Daley store with a check for $35, signed by "George Harper" as president, and "Elmer Hawkins" as manager. The check was the same he had obtained at the finance company and the grocer accepted it without comment.

Ink eraser had been used where the name had been scratched out. According to officers, the same forger attempted to pass another check for $18.25 at the Daley store at 302 West Fourth street, soon after the first check was cashed. When a clerk stepped to a telephone to call up the bank regarding the check, Peterson hurriedly left the store.

Officers today were making a search for Peterson, having obtained a good description of him from several persons at the store and at the finance company.

P.-T. A. COUNCIL PLANS PUPPET SHOWS IN S. A.

The marionettes are coming! These puppet shows will be presented in Santa Ana, on two memorable days, December 5 and 6, under the auspices of the P.-T. A. council of the city, according to announcement made today by officers of the organization.

The Goldsmith-Engle marionettes have been chosen to present their whimsical fairy play, "Cinderella," and the Chinese fantasy, "The Nightingale," the first play to be given at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Monday, December 5, in the high school auditorium, and the fantasy to be given at both matinee and evening performances on the following day.

These marionettes travel in their own motor car, carrying all the equipment of elaborate lighting apparatus, stage scenery, velvet draperies and other paraphernalia of a modern art theater. Included is a special menagerie of puppet animals used in the plays, including a goose, squirrel, pig, cat, frog, nightingales, horses, rats, mice, lizards, and others which form part of the "cast."

There are five puppet masters traveling with the Goldsmith-Engle marionettes. In a performance, they stand on a platform back of the little stage, and leaning over as from a balcony, guide the small actors through their parts, speak, laugh and sing for them.

The plays to be given here are two of the favorites. In "The Nightingale," the prologue shows the Great Wall in China which divides Fairyland from the Land of Children, and the four acts which follow, develop the charming story in dramatic fashion. The Chinese draperies are said to be unusually beautiful and the accompanying music is oriental in character.

XMAS SEALS BRING HEALTH

BEING SHOT IN HAND IS WORTH $667 DAMAGES

Being shot through the left hand ought to be worth about $10,527, in the opinion of R. S. Erbe, Costa Mesa garage owner. But Superior Judge E. J. Marks assessed the damage at $667 yesterday, when the case was in court and today Erbe is in possession of judgment for that amount against J. J. Cunningham, who welded the gun. S. B. Kaufman and W. F. Menton represented the plaintiffs. The firm of Head, Rutan and Scovel was counsel for the defendant. Erbe had chosen a hammer as his weapon in the fray. But he didn't connect with any part of Cunningham's anatomy, according to the testimony. In fact he was said to be 16 feet away when the shot was fired from his neighbor's revolver. This evidence is supposed to have been responsible for the collapse of a plea of self-defense, with which Cunningham attempted to justify his act. Judge Marks pointed out that he could have dodged out the garage door when Erbe approached with the hammer. Apparently Erbe and Cunningham were not good friends. The garage owner is charged by Cunningham with the offense of placing large crates on his property. This aroused the ire of the gun toter and he protested. Erbe is said to have used profane language in telling his opinion of his neighbor, punctuating his remarks with a hammer. Cunningham didn't like the gyrations of this instrument and shot it from his neighbor's hand. This will cost him $667.

Filling Station Robbed Of Cash

Approximately $20 in small change was stolen from the Shell Oil company's filling station at Seventeenth and North Main street, late Monday night, according to a report filed with the Santa Ana police yesterday afternoon. Two men who came into the station earlier in the evening and purchased gasoline are suspected by officers and a search for them is being made. Entrance into the station was made after a glass window on the south side of the station was smashed. The burglary was reported by J. Cavdrey, clerk.

ANNUAL SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS WILL START FRIDAY AND LAST TILL DECEMBER 24

The annual sale of Christmas seals, under the direction of the Orange County Tuberculosis association, will commence Friday and will last till Christmas.

The proceeds from these penny seals are used for an anti-tuberculosis program in this county and especially directed toward preventive measures in combating disease.

During the past year the outstanding accomplishments of the Orange county committee on tuberculosis and public health have been to make possible monthly diagnostic chest clinics, administer the Children's Health camp, place and supervise cases needing treatment. Adults and children have been placed in sanatoria and preventoria and many case problems have been taken care of through personal attention.

Control of tuberculosis in California is no longer impossible, as facts and figures show a declining death rate. But future control depends largely on the number of Christmas seals sold each year, according to Mrs. Amelia Meagher, executive secretary of the local association. Health education through addresses by experts is also of great value, she said.

A letter enclosing one dollar's worth of seals has been sent to over 20,000 Orange county homes. With it is a message telling of the purposes of the campaign and the accomplishments in battling with tuberculosis.

"A wonderful foundation of health and happiness has been laid by the purchasers of Christmas seals and we are giving you this opportunity to help us continue and enlarge the tuberculosis control program," the letter declares.

It continues by pointing out that tuberculosis can and is being prevented in California, the death rate having been reduced by more than one-half.

It states that seals sell for one penny each and that checks should be made payable to the Orange County Tuberculosis association.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain. All druggists.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c. 50c. 60c.—Adv.

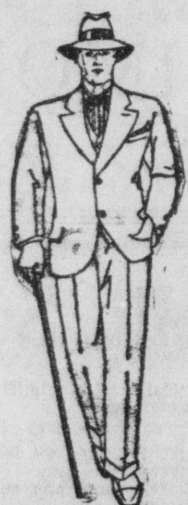

Exhibit Coffins In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—Mexico undertakers are strong believers in window displays. Coffins sell from $4 up, ranging from rather plain unadorned boxes to heavily upholstered outfits with silver handles and collapsible sides.

The different varieties can be viewed in any undertaker's window and are objects of much attention. A favorite method of display is the pyramid with a half dozen or more coffins from adult to infant size placed on top of each other.

MAKES RADIO STATIC UNHEARD

A simple, amazing device has been invented by C. H. Geppert, M-705, Hewett Bldg., Des Moines, Ia., which filters 50 to 90 per cent of static in radio receiving sets. Not only that, but when static is not bad, you can increase your volume tremendously, bring in more distant stations, save 30 to 40 per cent on batteries, eliminate local stations from running in, give your set at least one more stage of radio reception and greater selectivity. Works on all radios; can be attached instantly by anyone without change to set. Mr. Geppert wants agents and is willing to send a no-cost sample. Write him today.—Advertisement.

YOUNG COUPLE RETURNS FROM VISIT ABROAD

After a two and a half month's trip, which took them through several European countries, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Winbiger returned to Santa Ana yesterday.

An ex-service man, Winbiger first bought tickets to Paris, where he and his wife attended the American Legion convention in September. After the convention they toured through France, Italy, Switzerland and England. They left Santa Ana on September 3.

Much of the time was spent in Italy where they visited at Milan, Naples, Venice, Florence and Pisa. They also visited Mt. Vesuvius. Returning north, they stopped at Pisa where both climbed the famous leaning tower.

In France they visited Marseilles, Cannes and Monte Carlo and spent three weeks in Paris. While in Switzerland they visited Lucerne, Bern, and Geneva, taking several excursions into the Alps from Geneva.

On the return trip to America, Mr. and Mrs. Winbiger visited in London for several days, flying from Paris to London and back via the regular air route.

"We had a wonderful trip and the people in all of the countries visited were most cordial and friendly to us, as they were to all Americans. Rumors that ill feeling existed were unfounded so far as we were able to see, and we soon learned to take no stock in them," Mr. Winbiger said.

The most impressive scene on the entire trip, according to Mr. Winbiger, was the American Legion parade in Paris during the convention. "There was a feeling there that I have never felt before and as our former ex-service men swung down the avenue, I think it was the most impressive sight I have ever witnessed," he said.

TO NOMINATE OFFICERS FOR EXCHANGE CLUB

The Santa Ana Exchange club were given a rare musical treat yesterday when artists from the Santa Ana branch of the Los Angeles Academy of Music presented a program that filled the entire time of the club's program hour.

Dr. Cassius Paul was program chairman.

Charles South, who recently located in Los Angeles and later established a class here, opened the program with a group of violin numbers, playing "The Old Reformation" waltz in A Major and "Traumerel."

He was accompanied by Mrs. Lola B. Wilkinson, who, following the violin numbers, sang "Eyes of Irish Blue" and responded to an encore with a piano solo.

A report of the charter meeting at Culver City last week was made by Les Eckles and Marie Morris, the two men presenting various details of the big party.

Discovery that recent nominations for officers to be elected at the first meeting in December had been improperly made by permitting nominations from the floor necessitated appointment of a nominating committee, and President Berle Morthland appointed C. D. Swanner, Irvin Doyle, Dr. John Wehrly, Les Eckles and Marie Morris as the committee. The committee is scheduled to report nominations at the meeting next Tuesday.

FARM NEWS

Protection Of Forests League Aim

Two more units of a new organization known as the Orange County Forest Protective league will be formed in the near future.

The farm bureau committee follows the instructions given at a recent meeting of forest enthusiasts. This meeting, which was held in Santa Ana for the purpose of securing the co-operation of a few men able and willing to become crew leaders in the case of forest fires, grew into a movement to organize a county-wide league for forest protection.

The objects of the association will be to foster forestry, provide for fire protection and to establish training camps. John R. Ragan was elected temporary chairman, and A. M. Stanley, secretary. A committee on by-laws and membership was appointed with instructions to report as soon as the other units were formed.

ADVISOR URGES MEASURES TO PROTECT TREES

By HAROLD E. WAHLBERG
County Farm Advisor

Owners of young orange or lemon trees one, two or three years of age should take steps to provide protection from possible frost injury this winter. It is better to be safe than sorry, as the modern saying goes.

It is not economical to provide orchard heaters for young acreages from one to three years of age. Wrapping with some insulating material has proven very satisfactory. There are many different types of material that can be used. Corn stalks, tule stalks, sudan grass, milo, newspapers, etc. have been used in Orange county. The important thing to keep in mind is to tie the material fairly tightly around the trunk of the young tree. The insulation should be about three or four inches thick, making a diameter of eight or nine inches. The ties should be made at both ends and in the middle. The stalks should be at least as long as the trunk and could project up into the crotch of the tree. If newspaper is used, it is better to crinkle it than to put it on smoothly. The small air spaces in the wrinkles serve as insulation chambers.

The use of loose tree protectors is not safe. The cold air will penetrate the space between the protector and the tree.

The protection should be removed after all danger of cold has passed.

COUNTY FORESTS INSPECTED ON TOUR

Half a hundred people interested in the protection of Orange county's watershed made a tour of the mountain section November 19, under the auspices of the farm bureau co-operating with the U. S. forest service.

The motorcade of 16 cars left Santa Ana at 9 o'clock and after visiting the nursery at Orange County park, traveled over the new $28,000 skyline road to the summit of Black Star canyon. The members of the party had the distinction of being the first to traverse this road on the Orange county side. This was the first farm bureau-forestry tour in the state, it was said.

On the return from the summit, luncheon was served at the ranger camp. Talks were heard from a number of experts. Prof. Woodbridge Metcalf, extension specialist in forestry, explained the general need of forest conservation. Paul Bailey, Orange county flood control engineer, told the relationship between forests and floods. Everett Stanford, assistant chief forester of Los Angeles, related the details of the plans used in that county. W. W. Hoy gave records of the runoff from Santiago before and after the Hathaway fire.

According to Hoy, the water contained as high as 40 per cent silt due to barren hillside, during recent rains. Ranger J. B. Stephenson stated that Santiago creek was too high for fording during the last storm.

MAKE LEAVES PART OF SOIL, SAYS WAHLBERG

By HAROLD E. WAHLBERG
County Farm Advisor

After most of the leaves have fallen from the trees they should be disked under and incorporated in the soil so as to make way for the winter cover crop.

Although no measurable results have been obtained from the application of fertilizer materials to walnut trees, it is conceded that an annual winter cover crop is a cheap source of organic material to keep the soil in a good condition. Organic material supplied by the cover crop will materially improve the physical texture of the surface foot or so of soil.

Any of the legumes are desirable, such as melilotus, indigo, purple vetch and horse beans. The grower's own experience with each or all of these crops should guide him in the choice of variety. If good tonnage has been obtained from the use of any one of these, that one may be continued as long as it gives good results. If the yield runs down appreciably, another variety should be planted. The seed should not be planted until most of the leaves have fallen and have been turned under.

The use of non-legumes, such as rye, barley or wheat is not desirable. The tonnage from non-legumes, mustard for example, may be comparatively large, but they are not as good soil builders as the legumes that have the advantage of "fixing" nitrogen from the air.

Winter planting is better than late spring for several reasons. In the first place, the winter cover crop competes less for moisture, making use of the season's rains. Secondly, the early turning under of the crop while still succulent in the spring will provide an earlier supply of organic matter for the soil.

A shortage of backfield players may hamper the Santa Ana junior college football team when Coach Bill Cook's eleven meets Citrus Union college at Poly field here tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock as the final act of the 1927 Southern California "Jays" conference. Injuries that the Don football team received in their great game against Compton last Saturday have seriously weakened the team. Coach Cook said today that he will have difficulty trying to muster a complete backfield. Several of the players are nursing bad ankles, among them Captain Blanchard Beatty, "Red" Guyer, Bill Poe and "Pete" Twist, all halfbacks, are on the hospital list. Twist and Guyer probably will be able to play but Poe is absolutely out of the game with an injured side.

Preliminary Planned
A preliminary is to be played between the Santa Ana Poly Ineligibles and the Newport Beach Athletic club. The curtain-raiser will begin at 12:30 o'clock, even before most of the turkey dinners are consumed.

The Santa Ana collegians, conquerors of the previously undefeated Compton team, will go into the game with the edge over the visitors from Azusa. The Citrus aggregation has been defeated three times this season and has registered but one victory. However, Citrus held Fullerton to a single touchdown indicating that the little team is a battling defensive aggregation. Coach Cook expects to start Captain Beatty at quarterback, Bill Luck and Pete Twist at halfbacks and Luke Davis at fullback in his backfield.

Regular Line Intact
The regular Santa Ana line is intact with the exception of Mark Martin, end, who is out with an injured ankle. Martin is hobbling about the college on crutches. Martin's position on the line will be filled by Lynn Hafer, former Orange high school boy.

The starting forwards will be Stewart and Hafer, ends: Weaverling and Bradberry, tackles: Casey and Fitz, guards and Woodington, center.

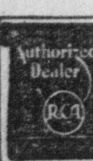

Santa Ana will place in fourth place in the conference standing if its start tomorrow is successful. At present three teams are still in the race for the title. The upset of Compton by Santa Ana gave Pasadena and San Bernardino a chance to win. Pasadena and Compton clash tomorrow to eliminate one of the teams. The victor will be tied with San Bernardino for the pennant.

"PINKY" GRANGE STAR NOW

They're cheering another Grange at Illinois, and the cheers are usic to the ears of the famous "Red" Grange. It's his brother "Pinky" they're cheering now, his younger brother who was the big star in Illinois' victory over Michigan this year. After failing to make the grade of greatness as predicted for him by "Red" many seasons ago, the younger red-head seems to have become a star on his own right this season.

GARLAND GRANGE

By BILLY EVANS

"Red" Grange, the "Galloping Ghost" of other days in Big Ten circles, has finally been vindicated. When Illinois beat Michigan recently by the score of 14-0, in which the play of "Pinky" Grange, younger brother of "Red," featured, a prediction made three years ago came true.

"I have a younger brother Garland who is as good if not a better player than I am." That was "Red," modest college yell any time the critics raved over any of his many superlative performances. Was "Bust" Two Years

For two seasons "Pinky" Grange was a complete "bust" in his attempt to live up to the famed deeds of his illustrious brother. A serious injury, suffered early in his sophomore year, put him out of the running before the season had gotten under way and eventually caused his retirement from college for the year.

The following season "Red" Grange himself unconsciously was the cause of Brother "Pinky" not making the grade and all because good-hearted "Red" wanted Brother "Pinky" to have some of the many luxuries the two had often cherished but probably never expected to have.

Quitting Illinois to enter professional football, because no sane person could refuse the fancy sum that was guaranteed him, "Red" Grange a poor boy, almost overnight became wealthy. On top of this came more money as the result of a highly successful college movie in which he starred.

Bought Brother Roadster
I am told by a very close friend of "Red's" that one of the very first things he did after purchasing a home for the family, was to buy a snappy red roadster and a "spiffy" racoon coat for Brother "Pinky."

In his travels, Grange had discovered those two things were prized assets, the liberal advantages of a college education, for the sons of the pampered rich.

What could be more natural than for "Red" Grange to use his newly-acquired wealth on his "kid" brother. Real sentiment there. However, "Red" unknowingly for a time spoiled a potentially great football player.

An open roadster, a racoon coat, the wide open spaces of Illinois and a fat pocketbook, were not conducive to gridiron thoughts, strenuous training and going early to bed. There was no desire to return to Illinois and study.

Got Serious This Year
Very often a year's experience in getting real contact with the world helps a lot. I am told that when "Pinky" Grange returned to Illinois this fall, he came with a seriousness about his work that was previously lacking and at once began to rise to heights Brother "Red" had prophesied.

In the two games that I have

WILLARD ENDS 'BOMO' KORAL GRID SEASON; MAY START IN LATHROP BUSY S. A. BACKFIELD

Frances E. Willard junior high school's football team closed its 1927 season by taking a 26 to 0 defeat from the powerful Anaheim high school Class B (130-pound) eleven at Anaheim yesterday.

Two touchdowns were made in first quarter by Jones and Riley. Anaheim halfbacks before the Santa Anans knew what they were doing.

In the second period Anaheim had the ball on Willard's 45-yard line but a pass from Riley to Hall was intercepted by Gross on his 45-yard mark. From there, Willard carried the oval to the Colonis' 2-yard line as the half ended.

In the third quarter Anaheim scored again, this time pushing the ball over from its own 33-yard line.

In the fourth stanza Anaheim ran the ball to within a few feet of the outside line and Lund threw a pass to Jones who was laying on the other side of the field. Jones caught it for a gain of 62 yards and a touchdown.

JULIA LATHROP BOYS DRILL AGAINST PASSES

Julia Lathrop junior high school's football squad journeyed to Tustin yesterday for a hard scrimmage with Coach "Eeny" Wilcox's Class B team and then topped off the afternoon by going up against Bill Cole's varsity. The big fellows threw passes most of the time that they had the ball, giving the South Main street backfield a chance to improve its defense on passes.

This will be the last scrimmage that Coach Ferris Scott will give his men before they depart for San Diego Saturday. However, the team will hold a short workout Thursday morning and still another Friday afternoon.

The trip Saturday will be the longest one ever taken by a local junior high school athletic team and it is probably longer than any ever undertaken by a California junior high school team. The team to be played in a curtain raiser is that of the Memorial junior high school which holds the junior high championship of San Diego. Although this southern school has a thousand more students than the locals, Scott believes that his boys have a good chance to win.

Julia Lathrop school is quite proud of its football record this season, having met every Class B team in the Orange County league and out of eight games played only once have they had their goal line crossed by means of a running play, four times via the aerial route, and once by the recovery of a fumble.

Callahan Soundly Beaten By Fields

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Mushy Callahan's return to the ring was marred by a second defeat last night when Jackie Fields gave the junior welterweight champion a boxing lesson in ten rounds at the Olympic auditorium.

Callahan did not make as good a showing against Fields as he did against Dick Hoppe at Hollywood a week ago. Since his long layoff the champion seems to have lost something of his old time skill. If anything, last night's bout was too one-sided.

DRAKE VARSITY NEARS L. A. FOR CONTEST WITH BRUINS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Drake university, much pummeled this season in football contests with such opponents as Pittsburgh, Minnesota and Notre Dame, will arrive in Los Angeles Saturday to find an enraged University of California at Los Angeles awaiting them in the Coliseum.

The Bruins are admitted by Coach Bill Spaulding to be whetted to a high degree by their expected turnback by Arizona Saturday when the Wildcats enjoyed a 16 to 13 homecoming victory at U. C. L. A.'s expense.

The Bruins at Arizona failed with touchdowns in sight, Spaulding declares, and is sparing no time this week driving his athletes, who let

'BOMO' KORAL MAY START IN LATHROP BUSY S. A. BACKFIELD

Little Benjamin ("Bomo"), hardest of all the Poly backs, may start at half in Santa Ana high school's crucial football game in the San Diego stadium next Saturday afternoon.

Out of harness for more than a month because of a torn ligament in his knee which he suffered in the first few minutes of the first game of the year, Koral is back in first class condition now and according to those "in the know" Coach "Tex" Oliver intends to start him at the border city.

"Bomo" got into the Pasadena game for almost a quarter and a half into the thambra tussle last week for several minutes. He is a good offensive man and one of Poly's leading defensive lights. His absence early in the season before some of the inexperienced men got the knack of Oliver's system was a tremendous handicap to the eleven because Koral was one of three lettermen on the squad, "Red" Cooke and Captain Jack Blakeney being the others.

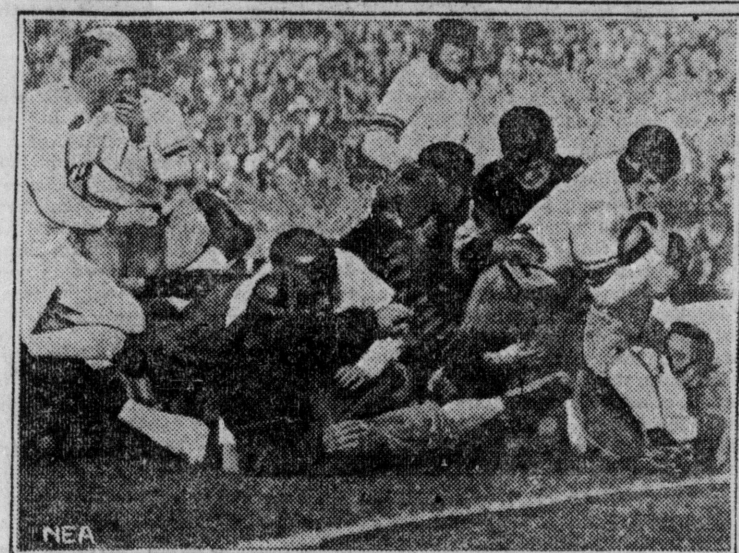

Koral has been working out the first string in practice this week and is a pretty sure bet to come on the field along with Jimmy Musick, Blakeney and Bill Dugger to start proceedings.

That will give Oliver four high class offensive men and two particularly fine defensive backs in Koral and Musick. San Diego, with

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Before the United States Polo association could appoint young Winnie Guest to a place on the team that will defend the international cup against the British team, permission had to be secured from the Hurlingham club which controls the game in Great Britain.

Perhaps it was not absolutely essential to get the consent of the British rules but through an act of courtesy it was done. Young Guest was a sensation as the captain of the championship Yale team and in the trials for the team he displayed such ability that he forced a place open for himself on the "Big Four."

It developed then that there might be a question of his citizenship and that there were other singular features. His father is one of the leaders of British polo and one of its main financial supporters and it would be unusual to have his son playing on an opposing team. It was thought also that the British might want to use him (they certainly could use him) and that they were entitled to him.

Guest was born in England of an American born mother but he was a British citizen. He came to this country years ago, however.

By GRIDDER

Having saved the best for the last, the Orange County Athletic league is steamed up into a fever heat for the piece de resistance of the 1927 schedule which will be played at Orange tomorrow afternoon between Fullerton and Orange high schools.

"Shorty" Smith's "Big Red Team" is undefeated in conference ranks and Stewart White's Orangemen have lost only one league battle, that somewhat unexpectedly to a keyed-up Huntington Beach creation.

The teams are almost evenly matched. Orange appears to have the smoother running attack and a sterner defense but "Shorty" Smith has a way of urging his players and had his major schooling here both in the lecture rooms and on the polo field. He also had secured his first citizenship papers.

Furthermore, their distinctive flavor gives me the greatest pleasure."

Before taking it up with the British officials, the United States association conducted an investigation and learned that in the opinion of Washington he was an American citizen as he had been granted a passport as such.

The British officials graciously consented with the statement that there never had been any question with them about his eligibility. Guest later was demoted to the squad of substitutes but he may get into the matches.

This case brings to mind other interesting ones of similar character.

Sweetest First American

When Jess Sweetener won the British amateur golf championship in Scotland last year, the American writers were referring to his victory as being the second scored by an American.

British writers, looking at the copy, questioned the statement. "Who was the other?" they asked.

"Walter Travis," they were told. "My dear fellows," they said. "E was an Australian."

He was born an Australian, it is true, but he spent most of his life in the United States and learned his golf here.

Just recently Miss Helen Willis was acclaimed as the second American girl to win the Wimbledon tennis championship and it was questioned.

May Sutton Bundy, of California, who won the championship years ago, crossed the ocean for the tournament but it was claimed that she was an English girl.

It was put up to Mrs. Bundy. "Yes," she said, "I was a British subject at the time. My mother and father were English and I was born in England. Helen Willis is the first American born girl to win the championship."

The Olympic games always bring up questions of nationality and eligibility. The most prominent one of recent date was that of Mrs. Molla Mallory, the tennis player.

Mrs. Mallory Ineligible

When the United States Lawn Tennis association decided to enter a team in the 1924 games at Paris, Mrs. Mallory naturally was regarded as one of the aces of the team but one of the legal minded members of the association questioned her eligibility. It was thought better to have it settled here rather than submit her to the humnity of being called up in Paris.

Mrs. Mallory was a Norwegian subject but she automatically became an American citizen when she married Franklin I. Mallory, a New York broker. Officially she was an American but a rule of the International Olympic association was found that an athlete who once had competed for one nation could not represent any other nation. Mrs. Mallory once had played for Norway and in the eyes of the Olympic officials she was a Norwegian. It naturally distressed Mrs. Mallory that she could play as an American with the Wightman Cup team at Wimbledon and would have to play with Norway in the Olympics.

Miss Ryan Californian

There was the interesting case of Miss Elizabeth Ryan also. She was born in California but went to England before the war

Fair Ground 'Dark' Tomorrow

The Orange County Fair grounds will be "dark" tomorrow, the baseball game scheduled for there between the Orange County club and Joe Pirrone's All-Stars having been postponed today.

There will be a contest Sunday but the opponents have not been announced as yet.

on to greater heights at the crucial time and Fullerton probably will win tomorrow as it has from the others all season.

It should be a close, hard battle with both teams resorting to open play, wide end runs and forward passes. They are both adept at this style of play. Consequently, it would not be surprising to see both teams score early and often. We guess Fullerton at 20 to 13.

Fullerton has a great back in "Oakley" Adams who passes 45 yards and kicks 55 yards but he has but little on the fair-haired Alvin Edwards, Orange's captain, or Wayne Blackburn.

There will be no other crucial conflicts on the day's schedule which completes the season in the Orange County loop unless Orange wins and brings about a tie with Fullerton. In that case, the two leaders probably would collide in a playoff.

Bill Cole takes his little Tustin squad to Huntington Beach. Tustin has won two straight and figures to give Harry Sheue's Oilers a battle royal. Anaheim entertains Excelsior and Brea-Olinda goes to Garden Grove.

seen "Pinky" Grange in action, he falls to do only one thing as well as "Red," carry the ball. As an end he hasn't the opportunities that his brother had. He is just as fast, possibly faster, and defensively he is far superior.

He recovered a fumble that made possible Illinois' first score against Michigan and helped put the Illini in position for the second touchdown by his spectacular work.

"The greatest satisfaction I ever got out of any football game was in 'Pinky's' showing against Michigan," is the way "Red" tells the story of his pride in the achievements of the younger Grange.

"Pinky's" hair is sure enough red. He is more entitled to the nickname given his brother, but must take the monicker of "Pinky" to distinguish between the two.

everything to gain and nothing to lose, is sure to do considerable forward passing because Santa Ana has a reputation of being none too alert on defense against an aerial attack.

The arrangement also will give the crafty Texan two swift, elusive halfbacks to throw in the game at the psychological moment in Melvin Beatty and Wylie Carlyle.

Santa Ana will hold its practice tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock, this being the first time this year that the squad has indulged in a workout so early.

and lived there for more than ten years. This long period of residence eventually placed her in the position where, as far as tennis was concerned, she was a woman without a country.

When the Wightman cup matches were first started, Miss Ryan, one of the best tennis players in the world, found herself on the outside. The Americans would not appoint her to a place on the American team because of the thought that the British might regard her as being eligible for their team. The British would not use her for fear it would cause a protest from the Americans.

Eventually Miss Ryan found the solution by returning to the United States and playing for a year and she then established herself with a nationality. Now she is back in England. That should be the proof.

Trojans LEAVE FOR CHICAGO GIVEN OVATION

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—With the echoes of a tremendous ovation ringing in their ears, 33 University of Southern California football players today were speeding east to encounter Notre Dame Saturday on Soldiers' field, Chicago.

Headed by Coach Howard Jones and Captain Morley Drury, star quarterback, the Trojans hopped aboard a train here last night while a milling mob of citizens and students gathered to wish them a noisy goodspeed.

"We will play a hard game and hope and expect to win," shouted Coach Jones through a megaphone from the car platform. "We have all the respect in the world for the ability of Notre Dame, however."

"The coach said it all," declared Captain Drury when he was called on.

The "Thundering Herd" is Chicago-bound eager to wipe out the memory of a 13 to 12 defeat at Irish hands here last fall. In addition they are "playing for Don Williams."

Williams, best open field runner on the squad was scarcely able to refrain from tears when his teammates called to say good-bye yesterday at the hospital where he lies with a bone broken in his back.

"You'll kick them without me," he said. "But I'd like to be there. When you hit Mr. Flanagan tell him a few of them are from me. Not that I have anything against Flanagan, but I want him to know I am thinking of him."

Williams is the player who staged Southern California's 71-yard march to a touchdown against Notre Dame last year. Physicians say he probably will be able to play football next season.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23.—Jess Harper, who taught Knute Rockne football fundamentals when he was coach at Notre Dame 15 years ago, has joined his pupil, now recognized as one of the foremost strategists in the game, in preparing the Irish for the game against U. S. C. at Chicago Saturday.

Harper and Rockne looked over the team today and picked a starting lineup. The backfield combination of Brady, quarterback; Viamic and Chevigny, halfbacks, and Freddie Collins, fullback, will open against the Trojans.

Christy Flanagan, Ray Dahman and Elmer Wynne will go into the backfield as soon as the shock troops need them. Several line positions may be strengthened before the game begins.

HAWAII, OXY SET FOR COLISEUM TILT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Southern California's turkey day grid special—the meeting of the University of Hawaii and Occidental college in the Coliseum here will be a hard-fought football game, according to "pre-war" preparations in the hostile camps.

The Hawaiian stars have cavorted in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena since their arrival on the mainland Saturday. The squad packs weight, speed and a category of tricks, it can be judged from watching the aggregation in practice.

TIJUANA SEASON TO BEGIN TOMORROW

TIJUANA, Mexico, Nov. 23.—Twenty-eight horses are nominated for weights in the six furlong Thanksgiving Handicap on the card that will start the far west winter racing here tomorrow afternoon. This list will dwindle to about 12 actual starters when the official entry list is announced today.

About 900 horses are stabled at the track.

The Jockey club has arranged a card of eight races for the opening day with the Thanksgiving handicap valued at $2000, and the Beverly Hills claiming purse of $1000 over a mile and 70 yards, heading the program. The card includes two six-furlong sprints, three distance races of a mile and over, and two of the dash variety of five, and five and a half furlongs. The five furlong event will bring out the two-year-olds.

A colorful little Mexican town, astir with life lived just a pace or two beyond normal, becomes a focus point for the attention of millions of Americans tomorrow.

Tijuana, "Sunny Jim" Coffroth's track, throws open its gates on Thanksgiving day to all that is finest in horseflesh and much that is not as far as human beings go.

Today the town swarms with the "wise guys," the clockers, the dopesters, the tipsters, the grooms and stable boys and millionaires and all the mottled hodge-podge of humanity which provides a shifting and shifty background for the "bang-tails." Long before the 100-day meeting at Tijuana is over, many of them will be shiftless as well, but today, on the eve of the opening, hope springs eternal in that little Mexican town.

Racing men will be dreaming of winners tonight, and of starting off the meeting with a clean sweep of all seven races on Thursday's program.

"Sunny Jim" Coffroth, one of America's most extraordinary sporting characters, a man who seems to be universally loved and admired by the boys in the gee-gee business, has made extensive improvements at Tijuana this year.

Not since the track opened 11 years ago has there been so much effort and money put into improving it. The track itself has been resurfaced, which means it will be faster than ever.

Coffroth has enlarged his clubhouse, the painters have been busy for weeks around the big racing plant, and Tijuana will be at its brightest and gayest on this Thanksgiving Day.

It seems a far cry from the occasion for this national holiday, decreed by President Coolidge, to a few crowded hours of frantic effort shouting home the bang-tails as the curtain lifts at Tijuana tomorrow, with riffs-raff from all parts of the land rubbing elbows with sportsmen from similar localities and jeweled women joining the chorus of encouragement from the clubhouse porch. But then, the Pilgrims hadn't the advantages offered by this strange little Mexican town.

The horse-flesh, however, is magnificent. Special trains from Arlington Park, Chicago, from Maryland and New York and Kentucky have brought the finest thoroughbreds under silks to Tijuana this year. One all-steel train rushed 114 mounts from Chicago at the last minute, the thoroughbreds being cared for by special attendants who accompanied them. Reno, Nevada, sent 35 fast entries.

Among the better known colts and fillies reported to have crossed the border are Mistep, Light Carbine, Jock, Pennant Queen and Forever and Ever.

"Sunny Jim" has held out ample rewards this year. His purses total more than $1,750,000.

The piece de resistance, of course, is the Coffroth Handicap, which will be run March 18. The winning horses in this race will divide more than $100,000.

JUNKERS SEAPLANE FAILS TO TAKE OFF

HORTA, Azores Islands, Nov. 23.—Whether the crew of the Junkers seaplane D-1230—which made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to fly to Newfoundland—would again try the western transatlantic flight this season was doubtful today.

The flight failed when the heavy plane, after whirling down the waters of the harbor just at dusk, failed to rise because its load was too heavy.

The three airmen, Johann Ristic, Alexander Benheim and Fritz Loose, expressed disappointment when they returned to Horta, but would not discuss possibility of another flight this season.

Miss Lillie Dillenz, Viennese actress, was aboard when the unsuccessful attempt was made. She had flown here in the plane and hoped to be the first woman to complete a transatlantic flight.

accident, reached the coast 60 miles north of here, but did not land until he reached the Hearst ranch. He had barely two gallons of gasoline when he landed.

Summers said he told Giles there was a good landing field only half a mile from the spot he had selected on the Hearst ranch and suggested he moved his craft there, but Giles replied, "Now that I'm on land I think I'd better stay here." He added that this did not refer to his flight to Australia, via Hawaii, as he intended to make the trip.

Must Make Repairs Before New Attempt

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Capt. Frederick A. Giles, whose proposed trans-Pacific flight to Australia ended yesterday afternoon at the William Randolph Hearst ranch, at San Simeon, half way between San Francisco and Los Angeles, was returning here today by auto.

Although he said he flew his plane to the California coast from a point 480 miles at sea after it had been damaged, he notified his backers here that it is unsafe for flying and that he will have to make repairs before he can bring the plane to San Francisco for another announced flight to Honolulu and Australia.

Giles said he entered an "air bump" while flying in a heavy storm of wind and rain about 480 miles out. His plane, he said, was overturned and he found himself flying upside down.

"My charts, my navigation instruments, even my food, was dumped out," he told attendants at the Hearst ranch.

"I had to dump a good part of my gasoline load to keep the ship afloat and then I headed directly for coast. I was afraid I would never make it. The center section of the fuselage was broken and it is a wonder the ship did not buckle."

Follows Shoreline

"I struck the coastline about 50 miles north of here and followed the shoreline until I found a safe landing field."

Giles landed in a field about one mile from the Hearst ranch house. He missed the ranch's aviation field, where the "Golden Eagle," George Hearst's ill-fated Dole plane, used to land and take off.

Giles was in the air about eight hours. He took off from Mills field here at 7:23 a. m., and landed at San Simeon at about 3:20 p. m. In that time he traveled a distance of more than 960 miles and attained an average speed of 120 miles an hour.

When he left the Golden Gate he was going about 95 miles an hour and he had announced that he would hold that speed until he

Following the shooting of Lynch, scores of police motor squads were sent cruising about the areas where gangsters congregated.

Volley After Volley

Lynch was one of five policemen in an automobile pursuing the gangster car. The police car was making about 75 miles an hour, his companions said, and occupants of both machines were firing volley after volley.

Today's events opened the active attempt of Caponi to defend his power among the gangs.

Caponi and his cohorts had been curiously calm for weeks while rival gangs openly set about to force the overlord of gambling to yield his power.

Fitting Observance

"Now that these 12 months are drawing to a close it is fitting that, as a nation and as individuals, in accordance with the time honored and sacred custom, we should consider the manifold blessings granted to us. While in gratitude we rejoice, we should humbly pray that we may be worthy of a continuation of divine favor."

"Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, do hereby set apart and designate Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of November, next, as a day of Thanksgiving, and prayer, and recommend and urge that on that day our people lay aside their usual tasks and by the family fireside and in their accustomed places of worship we give thanks to Him who holds us all in the hollow of His hand."

had gone about 500 miles. If he adhered to his plans, his speed returning from the 480-mile "post" must have been terrific, aviators here pointed out.

Second Unsuccessful Hop

Yesterday was Giles' second unsuccessful attempt to fly the Pacific. Last Saturday he took off but returned after he went as far as the lightship, 19 miles out, saying he could not gain an altitude of more than 200 feet and at that altitude the fog was so thick he could not see.

Yesterday he passed the lightship flying at an altitude of 1000 feet and disappeared into what appeared to be a cloudless horizon.

The U. S. weather bureau here had not been informed of the storm he encountered until Giles returned to the coast and reported it.

Capt. A. T. Peterson, Giles' flight manager, would not comment on the possibility of another attempted flight until Giles arrives today from Southern California. He said it depended entirely on the extent of damage to the tiny Hess biplane.

Giles told attendants at the Hearst ranch last night that he would go to San Francisco today to procure necessary materials to repair the plane and then fly it to San Francisco to make another attempt as soon as weather permitted.

Giles On Way To Bay City By Auto

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Nov. 23.—Capt. Frederick A. Giles, who landed his plane on the Hearst ranch late yesterday when his proposed flight to Hawaii failed, left for San Francisco by automobile at 5 o'clock this morning, according to telephonic information received from the ranch.

hair, knows she must die in the electric chair unless the unexpected happens.

Henry Judd Gray, her partner in the murder of her husband, Albert, knows too, but he is resigned and unmoved.

Mrs. Snyder cried most of the night in her cell, prison attendants said, while Gray passed a quiet and restful night.

Informed They Must Die

Both were informed yesterday that the state court of appeals had denied them a new trial and they must die unless Governor Smith intervenes.

The contrast between the doomed lovers, who plotted the death of Albert Snyder and killed him with chloroform, sash weight and picture wire while he slept, was marked.

Gray has taken consolation in religion. He reads his Bible every day. He seemed almost cheerful as he read newspapers this morning.

Mrs. Snyder Breaks Down

Mrs. Snyder, who broke down and screamed when she was notified yesterday of the failure of her appeal, lost control entirely. She wept hysterically for hours and all through the night tossed and moaned on her cot. The prison doctor examined her at intervals.

Mrs. Snyder and Gray will be left in their present cells until 24 hours before the execution, Warden Lawes said.

Until they are moved into the cells from which they ever emerge alive, close to the death chair, their routine will be undisturbed. Both will have plenty of newspapers, magazines, books from the prison library and such visitors as they care to see.

Believe Nothing Can Stay Execution

ALBANY, Nov. 23.—The state court of appeals today set the week of January 9 for the execution of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, convicted of the murder of Albert Snyder.

The death warrants for Mrs. Snyder and Gray were signed by a majority of the judges of the court of appeals as the noon recess was taken. They were sent to Warden Lewis E. Lawes, of Sing Sing.

The doomed lovers now in the death cells at Sing Sing heard their fate yesterday when the court refused their appeal for a retrial.

Unless Governor Smith intervenes, it was believed nothing could stay the execution.

No State Court Recourse

The decision of the appeals court left no legal recourse open in the state courts. The only other recourse aside from the governor would be an appeal to the U. S. supreme court and it was not considered, likely this would be attempted.

Governor Smith, it was reported, would fix within a few days a date on which he will hear appeal for mercy on behalf of the lovers. The hearing is a formality which would not be denied under any circumstances, but the custom of the governor in the past has been to refrain from granting clemency when the verdict of the appeals court was unanimous as it was in the Snyder-Gray case.

In accordance with the usual custom, the executions probably will take place Thursday, before midnight.

COOLIDGE LETTER WITHDRAWAL ASKED

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Withdrawal of the chain letter, petitioning President Coolidge to run next year for re-election was asked today by Philip M. Tucker, broker, who started the chain.

Tucker returned from the south today and said he had no idea the plan had gained such tremendous headway.

It was reported that about 1200 letters, petitioning Mr. Coolidge to run, have been sent out in Massachusetts.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

The executions occurred only 50 yards from the American consulate and near leading hotels, newspaper offices and the foreign office.

Police Keep Order

Ostensibly the executions were private. Actually, there was only an iron barred fence between the court yard and the crowd outside. Mounted police kept order.

The prisoners were placed against a wall. Father Projearez was shot first, then Segurasi, then Humberto Projearez and finally Tirado.

Twenty men comprised the firing squad.

Two ambulances were just leaving with the bodies of the executed men and the firing squad still was lined up when reporters entered the court yard. Opposite the firing squad the wall was splashed with blood stains.

FIGHT PROMOTERS OPPOSE HIGH TAX

retain the 10 per cent tax on low price fight admissions and put a 25 per cent levy on tickets costing $5 or more.

The committee helped the movies by deciding to exempt 1 amusement tickets from the 10 per cent tax. The old exemption was 75 cents.

The 3 per cent automobile tax was cut in half, a step expected to have a wide effect upon the automobile market. Not only would new cars be reduced 1 1/2 per cent in price but all automobiles now in use would suffer a commensurate loss in value.

Big Corporation Cut

The corporations tax was cut $166,000,000. This is expected to enable corporations to distribute that much more in profits to stockholders next year. Nominally the proposed reduction of 2 per cent would make possible that much of an increase in dividends.

As the bill stands in its final committee form, the $255,820,000 reduction would include the following cuts:

Corporations, $166,000,000.
Admissions, $8,000,000.
Automobiles, $33,000,000.
Capital stock transfers, $8,000,000.
Produce exchanges, $2,820,000.
Club dues, $5,000,000.

Half Million Increase

It is figured the additional boxing tax will increase revenue half a million dollars a year.

The bill will be reported to the house December 5, where some changes are expected to be made.

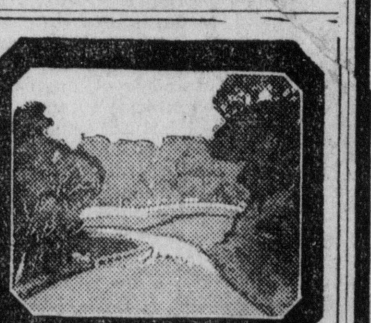

FORTUNE IS REWARD OF WOMAN'S FAITH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—A snow-covered Colorado mountain promised today to yield a tremendous fortune to a Washington, D. C., woman who for five years had the faith to tunnel into its depths.

The woman, Mrs. Ida M. Butts, apartment owner, received assayers' reports from Denver and Leadville that samples taken from her tunneled claim in New York mountain, near Eagle, Colo., would run from $150 to $214 a ton. Engineers informed her there was so much ore it would take 100 years to mine, and she already has a mill capable of producing $5000 in gold a day. If the assays are borne out, according to her attorney, W. Edgar Leedy.

COOLIDGE STILL IN RACE, BELIEF

selves, were more than ever at a loss to know whether Mr. Coolidge is to be drafted or declared out of the race. Many seem to feel he is quite in it.

Tracing developments since the "I do not choose to run" statement in the Black Hills—the subsequent silence of the White House, the decision of some Republican national committee leaders to work for Mr. Coolidge first and certain mysterious "joking inside news" brought back from New York by a Republican senator and circulated by his friends—the politicians fear they are in a game they don't know how to play. Few would talk for publication but they made no secret of their feelings.

Particularly bewildering to them was the manner in which the announcement of displeasure was a bi-weekly newspaper conference. It was said Mr. Coolidge was amused at the perplexity of the correspondents. Some who have been close to Mr. Coolidge since his Black Hills statement say he has chuckled secretly at the quandary of the politicians over his methods. They feel he intends to encourage the present situation rather than dispel it. Democrats pointed to the announcement as another proof of their contention that Mr. Coolidge is to be re-nominated.

Police believe the dynamite was to be used for safe cracking.

Jumps Around Like a Two-Year-Old—Little Capsules End His Rheumatic Pains

C. S. Kelley Drug Co. Offers 5-Day Trial on Money Back Basis

There's nothing in the world that brings such quick and complete relief from the pain and misery that makes life almost unbearable as those tiny capsules known from coast to coast as Allenhu Number 2.

More than one man and woman whom horrible rheumatism has been carrying down to helplessness—suffering the torture of the damned can testify to this.

All you have to do is to take one tiny capsule each hour for the first ten hours, the next day one every two hours for 14 hours, then take as directed.

In spite, however, of all the claims made for Allenhu Number 2—in spite of the remarkable results obtained by others—these little capsules must prove themselves in your particular case. For that reason, C. S. Kelley Drug Co. and good druggists everywhere have been authorized to make this guarantee: If after taking one full bottle Allenhu Number 2 as directed, you are not satisfied—go back and get your money—Adv.

WORK ON BEACH
BANK TO BEGIN
AFTER JAN. 1

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 23.—Work on the new home of the Bank of Balboa is scheduled to start soon after the first of January, according to reports. The new bank building, plans for which have already been drawn, is to be located on the southwest corner of Central avenue and Washington avenue. Dr. F. C. Ferrey, president of the bank, purchased the lot upon which the structure will be located, some time ago.

The structure will be of brick construction with up-to-date modern vaults and safety deposit boxes. The interior of the building is to be patterned on an old time Spanish style with high open beam ceilings.

The front of the structure is to be set back from Central avenue a distance of 10 feet and is to be improved with trees and shrubs, according to present plans. No estimate has been made on the cost of the building. It will be of class "A" construction and will be one of the finest structures in Newport Beach. It will be one story in height.

Building activity in the Newport harbor district seems to be on the upward trend. Smith brothers, marine hardware dealers at Washington avenue and Bay front in Balboa, are planning construction of a large addition to their store. The improvement will cost $10,000. Work is being rushed in the John H. Estus plumbing building at Twenty-second street and Coast boulevard.

Safe Now When Others
Come Close!The Secret of Keeping a Perspiring Body Sweet

Do you know why thousands of people who never have to take a laxative, do eat a candy cascara now and then?

They have found that cascara sweetens the whole system—brings an immaculate complexion that means everything. It prevents bodily chemistry from ever making one unconsciously offensive to others. And what a perfect regulator of the bowels!

Salts affect the lining of the bowels. Mineral oils leave a coating that the blood must carry off through the pores. How much better to cascade the system, and cause the bowels to expel everything by normal muscular contraction! To say nothing of the cleaner, sweeter condition that lasts for days—a wholesome condition that makes the use of deodorants quite unnecessary in January or July! Cascara is splendid for children, too, and they love the taste of this candy laxative which every drug-store has for 10c and 25c.

"ONE DANCE used to undo all my precautions for personal daintiness. All waste in my system seemed to come out through the pores. Today, I don't worry; I keep clean all through, with just occasional use of—"

The first unit will care for 10 kiddies, and it was pointed out when the plan was announced six weeks ago that real home conditions will prevail at the institution.

The property is located on Stanford avenue and is said to be an ideal location for the home. Dr. Slabaugh presented the proposition to the board of supervisors yesterday, when the deal was confirmed.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 23.—A. L. Dillinger, 35, of this city, walked out of jail into the arms of police. He was at liberty one day. Dillinger was released Monday from the Orange county jail, where he served a 30-day jail sentence, according to officers. Tuesday morning, he was arrested by Huntington Beach officers on a charge of being intoxicated.

Junior College Co-eds Give Delightful Tea In "Y" Hut

An air of gaiety and festivity pervaded the Y. hut on the high school campus Monday afternoon, for the friendly spot was rendezvous for the Associated Woman Students of Santa Ana Junior college, assembled to enjoy a tea complimenting the new students and the faculty women of the college.

The spacious room glowed with the warm rich colors of autumn, whose choicest flowers were used in decoration. A reception committee was formed of the officers of the Associated Woman Students, assisted by Mrs. Robert Northcross, dean of women. They were Miss Vera May Smith, Miss Joy Wilson and Miss Opal Vand-ruff.

Entertainment offered such enjoyable things as a musical reading by Miss Ruby Gray, a vocal duet by Miss Marian Bruner and Miss Frances Switzer, a violin duet by Miss Irene O'Brien and Miss Jane Stewart, a solo by Miss Melba Fletcher, and a dialect reading by Miss Geneva Hartung.

At the conclusion of the program, Miss Marcelle Ellis and Miss Etta Conkle took their places at a daintily appointed table, and poured tea to be served with delicious little cup cake and strawberry preserves. The table expressed the Thanksgiving season with its graceful basket of fruits and trailing leaves. The officers of the association had the aid of a number of committees in presenting the successful affair, including that on the tea menu, with Miss Edith Mae Breckenridge as chairman; serving with Miss Catherine Best as head; table decorations planned by Miss Eula Barker; room decorations, by Miss Mary Bruner; and that important feature of restoring order after such a function, in charge of Miss Frances Bragg.

Nature Study Course To Open Here

On January 16 from 7 to 9 p. m. Miss Elizabeth Burnell, nature study supervisor of the Los Angeles city schools, will begin a 14-week university extension course in Santa Ana, in the study of "The Birds and Trees of Southern California." The course will aim to give information rather than nature study methods. It will therefore be of interest to any lover of nature as well as to the nature study teachers of the city. It will cost $12 and will give two hours university credit.

Last year Miss Burnell gave a nature study methods course and at that time proved her very great ability as a teacher of such subjects. She is co-author with Luther Wyman, ornithologist of the Los Angeles Museum, of a "Field Book of Birds of the Southwestern United States." Anyone interested in joining the class may enroll with Will S. Kellogg, principal of Frances E. Willard junior high school.

Innominada Club

Mrs. Walter Moore was hostess to members of the Innominada club, who met recently in her hospitable home at 501 East Fourth street, where lively conversation and an amusing guessing game speed the hours.

In guessing twenty interesting things to be found on a copper penny, Mrs. I. D. Annis and Mrs. M. C. Williams tied, and had to cut for the possession of a pretty flower bowl and frog which their hostess had brought from Denver, Colo., when on an eastern trip last summer. Mrs. Ella Webster was consoled with a powder puff.

Late in the afternoon, the Misses Ruby and Opal Moore, young daughters of the home, aided the hostess in distributing the daintily appointed trays upon which were served refreshments of tamale pie, hot rolls, applesauce, home-cured olives, persimmon ice cream, angel-food cake, coffee and salted nuts. Names were drawn for an exchange of gifts at the Christmas party to be held next month with Mrs. Joseph Ryan, 316 East Myrtle street.

Enjoying the afternoon with Mrs. Moore were Mesdames I. D. Annis, James Clark, J. R. Gilliland, George Klever, Harvey Riggle, Joseph Ryan, J. H. Tompkins, Ella Webster, M. C. Williams, J. E. Wheatley, Masters Harvey Riggle Jr., Edward Riggle and Joe Ryan Jr., and the Misses Ruby Moore and Opal Moore.

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tiniest had no chance to scrap. The Buddies had them in a trap, for every little Tiniest was tied up in the rope. The Buddies pulled it fairly tight. Then one yelled out, with all his might, "Don't try to get away from us. There isn't any hope."

And then we Scouty Tiniest told all the rest, "I guess he's right. We'd best be good until we know just what they plan to do. This being tied is far from fun, but we're outnumbered two to one. The giant said that they were bad, and now I think so, too."

The Buddies slowly walked away, and pulled the rope while one yelled, "Hey, come on there, all you Tiniests, and don't be holding back. We'll take the lead. You trail behind, and all we ask is that you mind." And off the queer Bad Buddies went, a rather cheerful pack.

Up over hills, and down again the whole bunch slowly went, and then they reached a funny looking rock away up in the air. "No longer are we going to roam," one Buddy said. "This is our home. We live inside this monstrous rock and you will soon be there."

"Wasn't that Clowdy shouted, 'Gee, we haven't hurt you. Set us free.' This only made the Buddies laugh, and one of them yelled, 'No! That's not the thing we're going to do. You see, we want to play with you. If you are free, you'll run away, so in the cave you go.'"

A big hole led into the cave. Wee Carpy then began to rave. "Don't throw us into that place. You can't tell—we may die?" But ere the Tiniest knew it, they were lowered down, and one said, "Say, this cave is not so bad, at that. At least it's nice and dry."

card party, which will be held on Wednesday night, December 7, in the Legion hall.

Both bridge and 500 tables will be in readiness for players, and attractive prizes are being planned by the young women of the auxiliary. Players may progress or pivot, just as they wish. Refreshments will be served, and to complete the evening, the Auxiliary Glee club will sing several numbers.

The "hope chest" which will be awarded the holder of the lucky ticket, is a handsome cedar chest, and in addition to the articles which generous merchants have donated, many of the auxiliary members have added pretty bits of hand-work, until its contents would please the most exacting bride.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

A critic on decorations once said that any adornment, should merely point quietly to the beauties of the wearer, continuing, "for ornament does not beautify—it guides the eye to beauty." In choosing any kind of decoration, it would be well to keep this advice in mind. The least amount of trimming looks much better than a bit too much, and when it comes to trinkets or jewelry there is even greater danger of spoiling an effect.

For instance, you meet a woman whose hands are covered with rings mixed up with shiny gold and variously colored stones, conspicuous chains and bracelets, or perhaps long loopy earrings; and you would expect her to be a person of rather ostentatious tastes. It would hardly be in keeping with these showy ornaments if she happened to be dressed in clothes of good taste.

In these days of great simplicity in dressing, some adornment is necessary, but it should be chosen with the idea of accentuating some already good point in the cut, or the enrichment of some color note that needs to be brought out. In this respect some frocks are designed with a certain necklace to complete them.

The worst mistakes may be made through wearing fancy earrings, that are not suited to the features, and unless there is an almost perfect profile it is best not to wear any earrings at all.

Mother of Two.—At 24 years of age, with height of five feet, one and a half inches, you should weigh about 120 pounds.

A. B. C.—To rid yourself of superfluous hair so the roots are destroyed, the most satisfactory treatment so far is with the electric needle. It has some disadvantages, because it takes a great deal of time and is also very tedious. Some hairs do recover, but they will be weaker and most likely will be destroyed the next time they are treated. You may find that plain pure rice powder will suit your skin, and if it is not heavy enough for you, add some talcum to it.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

St. Elizabeth's Guild
Members of St. Elizabeth's guild of the Church of the Messiah were entertained last week at a delightful luncheon, given by Mrs. A. H. Taylor of 2422 Fairmont avenue. Lovely autumn flowers were used by Mrs. Taylor as decorations. The afternoon was devoted to folding Christmas seals for the county health department.

Girls Friendly
Miss Marian Parsons presented an entertaining picture of life on board a trans-Pacific liner Monday night at the meeting of the Girls Friendly society of the Church of the Messiah, in the home of Miss Mabel Robertson, 1317 North Main street. The talk on steamer life was part of a series of discussions concerning "A Trip to India," being held by the society. At the next meeting Miss Gertrude Chapman will discuss "First Impressions of India."

Throughout the evening the members folded Red Cross Christmas seals under the direction of Mrs. Charles Riggs. On completing their work the members were surprised by Mrs. Riggs who donated $2.50 to their treasury as thanks for their aid.

Miss Catherine Chapman, Miss Pauline Riley, and Miss Dorothy Jardine were appointed to the nominating committee as election of officers for the coming year will be held at the next meeting, to be held at the home of Miss Dorothy Jardine, 1509 Bush street.

Mrs. W. L. H. Benton announced that the society had cleared $40 through the sale of Christmas cards.

Parent-Teachers

Spurgeon Parent-Teachers association met in the school auditorium last week for the first meeting of the school year. Mrs. Robert Speed, president, called the meeting to order, and Miss Eva Osborn read the minutes of the previous meetings in the absence of Mrs. Mary Wolff, secretary.

Mrs. Virgil Clem reported on the work thus far, of the membership committee, and Mrs. Jones, treasurer, gave a report of the money on hand. The names of the new committee chairmen were read as follows: ways and means, Mrs. D. O. Rice; membership, Mrs. Virgil Clem; art appreciation, Mrs. Charles Best; safety first, Mrs. Martin Warren; emblem and magazine, Mrs. Rimel.

Spurgeon school is very much interested in the care of its undernourished children. So Mrs. Speed had written to the University of California at Berkeley for information in regard to the impression that pasteurized milk was of less value to the child than raw milk. The answer, read at the meeting, effectively dispelled this idea, the facts being that only one vitamin is impaired by pasteurization and milk is deficient in that one anyway. While on the other hand all disease germs are destroyed. Other opinions by competent authorities were read supporting this letter. Dr. Maye in particular stated that pasteurization is the best of all known treatments to make clean milk safe.

The members approved the action of the executive board in hiring one of the mothers to take charge of serving the milk to the children every day. The system of having the mothers alternate in this service has proven unsatisfactory.

Spurgeon has a number of new teachers this year so Miss Wagner introduced all of the teachers giving a brief resume of the work of each. She especially stressed the value of the pre-primer work taught in the kindergarten by Miss Marie Hamil.

The grade mothers this year will also serve as members of the ways and means committee, and each will solicit the mothers of the class she represents, for any assistance the P-T. A may require.

The following grade mothers have been appointed for this coming year: B1, Mrs. King, teacher, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Thwaite; B1, Miss Lieberman, teacher, Mrs. Olsen and Mrs. Leeson; A1, Miss Esther Osborn, teacher, Mrs. Knight, Mrs. Parlova; B2, Miss Bryant, teacher, Mrs. Calhoun, Mrs. Collins; A2, Miss Eva Osborn, teacher, Mrs. John Paul, Mrs. Barnett; B3, Mrs. Greenleaf, teacher, Mrs. Lilly, Mrs. Mize; A3, Miss Morris, teacher, Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Maynard; B4, Mrs. Mary Wolff, teacher, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Berry; A4, Miss Carter, teacher, Mrs. Aubrey, Mrs. White; B5, Miss Thatcher, teachers, Mrs. Watts, Mrs. Lively; A5, Miss Smith, teacher, Mrs. Motley, Mrs. Larson; B6-A6, Miss Kinsell, teacher, Mrs. Skiles, Mrs. Gardiner.

The business of the meeting being concluded a group of A6 pupils under the direction of Miss Ellnor Thatcher, presented a four-act play, an original arrangement of "The Courtship of Miles Standish." Richard Holmes made a con-

Russell Abbey was the dignified magistrate of the wedding scene. The members of the wedding party were, Lucille Cook, Dorothy Gowdy, Dorothy Benner, Irene London, Yelma Raley, Augusta Cheney, Ruth Warner and Alwilda Simpson. Last but by no means least was Ruth Warner the demure Puritan maid who announced the scenes and recited parts of the poem tying the acts together.

The whole play was ably arranged and presented and reflected a great deal of credit on Miss Thatcher for her splendid training of the children.

THE MAKING OF A NEWSPAPER

SKETCHES BY BESSEY

SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

Caxton's printing office in England was in, or near, one of the almshouses of Edward IV. His first books were "Game and Play of the Chess" and "Dictes and Sayings of the Philosophers." Caxton is pictured above reading the first proofs from his press. He printed the works of Chaucer, religious works, the Morte d'Arthur and many other volumes.

Printing spread over Europe and reached America. In 1544 a Spaniard in Mexico printed and published a book.

This picture represents a visit of King Edward and his queen to the printing shop of Caxton.

The first English book in America was published in 1639 or 1640 at Harvard College. Improvements were being made in printing styles, and more beautiful type faces were being designed. Aldo Manuzio of Venice made the type called Italic, such as the word is printed here. His model is believed to have been the beautiful handwriting of Petrarch.

Thanksgiving Setting
At St. Ann's Inn
For Weddings

St. Ann's Inn with its picturesque Thanksgiving decorations which not only dominate the spacious lobby and dining-room, but extend to the wide sweep of lawn, was the setting chosen by Miss Grace I. Seabury and Edward Bryan of Long Beach for their pretty wedding of recent date.

The ceremony was planned as the surprise climax of a party arranged for close relatives and friends of the young people. Arrival of the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church of this city, was speedily followed by the nuptial ceremony, for which the bride was gowned in crepe satin in delicate rose color.

After the guests had recovered from their surprise, and had showered the new Mr. and Mrs. Bryan with their congratulations and good wishes, way was led to the dining-room where a special table was reserved for the bridal party. Pluffy chrysanthemums in the crystal of the dinner service, the tall tapered and flower nut cups gracing the table.

Name cards were written for the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bryan, the latter's mother, Mrs. Sarah R. Seabury, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Galbraith and their children, Everett, Marjorie and Harvey, and Mr. and Mrs. Myers Burton and their daughter Frances.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan will make their home in Long Beach.

Ratiff-Parcells

Dr. and Mrs. George Stanley Parcells of Los Angeles, left yesterday for Santa Barbara where they will continue the honeymoon begun so auspiciously at St. Ann's Inn.

Mrs. Parcells was Miss Sudie Ratiff of New Orleans, and her marriage to Dr. Parcells was one of quiet simplicity at the parsonage home of the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial church. For the ceremony, she chose a gown of soft blue georgette with dark blue wrap trimmed in gray fur and a smart blue hat.

A group of Los Angeles relatives were down for the wedding, and for the pretty dinner which followed. The bridal table was in rose pink with flowers and all decorative details to harmonize. Places were indicated for Dr. Parcells and his bride, Charles Parcells, Messrs. and Mesdames W. L. Ratiff, C. L. Rush, N. L. Ratiff, P. Odum, Lyman W. Parcells, E. D. Parcells and Willard Parcells.

When they return from an extended stay in Santa Barbara, Dr. and Mrs. Parcells will establish their home in Los Angeles.

Cleland Home

Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Cleland's home at 1010 North Broadway, was an attractive setting last night for a bridge party at which those officers who have served Santa Ana chapter, O. E. S. so efficiently during the past year, were honored guests of their worthy patron, Dr. Cleland, and his wife.

Bridge tables were placed amidst a wealth of flowers, and scores were tallied on artistic cards. Pretty bridge score pads rewarded Mrs. Roland Kleess and Mrs. Maude Swarthout, taking first and second place among the woman guests, while a clever brass paperweight consoled Mrs. Eva Jane Parker. Among the men, a morocco leather cigar case rewarded Asa Hoffman, first; a leather billfold went to W. M. Sylvester, and a paperweight to Elton Roehm.

The small tables were made attractive with pretty linens for serving a supper of fruit salad, sandwiches, "food for the gods" with whipped cream and coffee. Mrs. Cleland's sister, Mrs. M. A. Bruce, and Mrs. Asa Hoffman aided in serving.

Dr. Cleland's gift to his worthy matron, Mrs. George Prather, was a handsome cut-glass bowl, while to the sentinel, Harry J. Roberts, was given a bill-fold. To each of the officers, including matron and entinel, was presented a pair of handsome candlesticks, decorated by the hostess.

Enjoying the pleasant evening with the hosts were Messrs. and Mesdames George Prather, W. M. Sylvester, Jack Willey, Elton Roehm, Edward Greeley, George Shippe, Walter Wright, Asa Hoffman, Roland Kleess, W. M. Dean, Marry Rolerts, T. R. AT THE

WEST COAST-WALKER

During the days of his boyhood a certain prop man in Hollywood used to read dime novels and picture himself as a daring, two-gun outlaw doing wild things. Firearms lured him. He became an authority on different kinds of revolvers, shot guns and rifles. That was one of the reasons he became a prop man, because his knowledge of firearms was invaluable in the making of Westerns.

For a long time he has been associated with Fred Thomson. When Thomson decided to make "Jesse James" which comes to the West Coast-Walker theater tomorrow, the prop man, George McGonigle, read the history of the Civil war and the careers of the James brothers. He discovered that Colt pistols were standard in the Confederate cavalry during the early days of the conflict; that Colt navy models appeared later; to be followed at last by the triumph of them all—the Colt Dragoon.

George corresponded with gun-makers and dealers and secured the first two. It required weeks to find a Dragoon and he worried about it. Finally he located one in Philadelphia. When it came it weighed four pounds. The barrel was something less than a foot long. The bore was so big he could stick his forefinger into it. It was some gun. Then he marveled at the fact that Quantrell's Rangers and the James brothers carried from four to six of them and shot them two at a time while galloping on horses.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Speed, thrills, chills and spills, interspersed with moments of rollicking comedy, characterize "Red" Grange's second screen appearance at the Yost Broadway theatre in a motion picture of the banked speedway, entitled "The Racing Romeo." TEMPLE THEATER

George Walsh in "The Kick-Off," the feature photoplay at the Temple theater beginning tomorrow will be the envy of many a college football star. As an athlete he rises to new heights by his record-breaking sprint in one of the most hotly contested gridiron battles ever seen or pictured. "The Kick-Off" is simply crowded with action and it portrays such a football game as few have ever seen on the field of actual combat.

Yakima Canutt, known throughout the world as the "Ace of Cowboys," will be seen at the Temple theater Thursday in his latest western thrillfest, "Desert Greed." Besides Yakima Canutt the cast of his "Desert Greed" includes Rosa Blossom, Edward Borman, Dick La Reno, Lucille Young, Henry Herbert, and "Boy"—the horse in a million.

Both features can be seen on a double bill. A special matinee will be held Thanksgiving day.

Pegasus Club

Mrs. G. W. Bond was recent hostess to the members of the Pegasus club, who met in her delightful home at 507 East Myrtle street, for an afternoon program on Russia.

Mrs. Frank Lansdown had charge of the program, and different members, in interesting papers, presented Russia's living conditions, her literature, art and poetry.

Two guests shared the interesting event with the Pegasus folk, Mrs. Edward Cole and Mrs. H. F. Fuller, and the latter added an enjoyable reading to the program. At the tea hour, Mrs. Bond served refreshments.

JACK LOCKWELL

By Patten

Price Hargon and his players were astounded when Jack Lockwell led the freshman football team on to the field that afternoon. The shock so upset the plotters that they didn't rally and fight their hardest until the game was in the final quarter. Even then, they couldn't stop Lockwell. He made a flashing run for a touchdown in the last two minutes.

When Jack told of his thrilling race to get back to play in the game, in which Hargon's team was soundly thrashed, there followed a rush of students toward Rock Lake.

They found two revenue officers salvaging the plane of the run-runner from the lake. "He got away," admitted one of the men, "but we know him. He can't escape."

After much long-distance telephoning, Jack learned that the boy who had stolen the motorcycle had been arrested while trying to escape on Dynamite, and that the pony was safe. . . . The freshmen players unanimously elected Jack captain of the team. He was forced to make a speech at the ensuing celebration. "Now, let's all get together and work for our class," he said. THE END.

Let our voices rise in praise

For the labor at the noonday,

ENEMIES MAKING HIM IMMORTAL

The news comes by the way of Paris that Trotsky, the closest associate with Lenin has been flogged at the order of the Soviet.

The difference between Trotsky and the ruling power now is too long a story to discuss at this point. But men who are willing to suffer all manner of indignity, imprisonment, flogging, and even death for their conviction are so few in our day of materialism and enjoyment that whether they are right or wrong in their views, their heroic nature renews our faith in humanity's response to real challenges.

A noted bishop in the Methodist church recently said, speaking of the Chinese Christians who had been massacred, "I am afraid that when they offered to give me life if I would make a renunciation that I would have declared that if they would let me up from the block I could make a statement of my belief that would be perfectly satisfactory to all parties interested."

When we read of heroic action and devotion of men for their belief, however radically wrong, in our judgment they may be, we feel that our action at the moment would be governed by the spirit that the bishop feared would dominate him.

Trotsky will live in history as a tremendous factor in a great revolution, a man of ability, sincerity and parts. And one of the things which will give him immortality is the suffering his enemies force him to bear.

PRESIDENT CALLES SINCERE

We do not know whether the expose of Mexico's secret diplomatic correspondence is true or not, but we are inclined to believe it is. The reason for this belief is the character of some of the things that are being printed. For example, there is published a letter from President Calles ordering that $100,000 be sent to the British striking miners. This, so those who are carrying on the assault on the Mexican government claim, is a gigantic crime against civilization.

Rather than reach this conclusion we would say that this is genuine evidence that Calles and his government were in sympathy with the millions of toilers. The miners of England were not in rebellion against the government, in fact that conflict was conducted in the most peaceable manner imaginable. There were no conflicts, there was no assault, there was no shooting for the reason that while the British workman was endeavoring to better his lot he was not in rebellion against the government. They lost their strike but the conflict itself has militated in favor of the British Labor party and labor has determined to get, through constitutional methods and political action, what it failed to get through the strike.

President Calles evidently was in sympathy with the object of the strikers and sent them money. It was an unusual procedure. It would have been an impossible one had the striking miners been in rebellion against governmental authority. But there is nothing in international law or precedent to deny the right of any man or group or government from assisting the masses of another nation when the families are in distress and want from any cause.

There have been some things that President Calles has done of which we do not approve but certainly, if these communications are true, he has proved beyond cavil his absolute sincerity in maintaining that he represents the common man and not special interests. We can have our own opinion about the value of special and financial interests in the development of Mexico and the President and his government may have adopted an unwise policy, but certainly you must give him credit for being consistent and sympathetic.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is primarily an American institution. It grew up out of a tradition started in New England shortly after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. In many places and among many people the idea from which Thanksgiving Day originated has been lost. They are simply keeping up the form. With many, it is a day for gorging. The football fields are so crowded that the late comers are unable to see the game. The pews are vacant in the churches and the Thanksgiving sermons in many places are preached to a small handful.

Experience has taught us that we do not need to live in marble halls, to be served from the finest ware, or eat the richest food in order to have the happiest time. All we need is a clear conscience and sufficient to take care of our bodily needs. We all in Santa Ana have that.

Everything is ours to enjoy. We do not even have to have the titled deed to property to enjoy that property. We do not have to own the railroad to get service to the highest degree. All things are furnished to us and fortunately, it is only those things which we own and control and direct that worry us. The man really possesses whose heart is so tuned with the Infinite that he can enjoy the material and spiritual things about him regardless of his personal relation to them.

There are those who by passing a beautiful garden or stopping to view it get more real satisfaction and joy out of it than the owner ever has. In the best sense they own the garden, because all we really possess of anything is that which we can appropriate to ourselves. Look around us. On the wall is a telephone with which we are in touch with the world. We do not have to look after it or manage it; others do it for us. It is there for service. We go to the railroad station that evening and the train is waiting for us to take us to our destination. It might have been ordered by us. We have no worry or concern. Others are running it for us.

The streets of the city are lighted for us. The patrolmen are looking after our safety. Everyone in one way or another is running errands for us. The whole world is serving us. God himself has seen to it that all must serve one, and one must serve all. We are thankful to Him that He has made it so.

Distress in the world is due to man's failure to do his part. We can pass a wonderful Thanksgiving Day because there are so many who are doing their part and we can reconsecrate our lives to the bringing of all people to this higher conception of those privileges and opportunities.

To go wrong is natural, to go right is discipline. —Augustine Burrell.

A Neglected Duty

Fresno Republican

Men's indifference to their civic duties have, at least in one place in the United States, entirely dispossessed them.

For a judge at Bayonne, New Jersey, has filled an entire jury panel with women—60 of them. The judge says the men are too busy to serve, and at the same time the women are fully competent to serve as jurors.

The women's jury service should not alarm anyone. As the judge says, they can be as good jurors as men.

But are the men not only to become indifferent to jury service but formally to retire from the field? As it is, in too many places, the standard of jury-men may be definitely raised by impaneling women. At present, in many cities, no men but the drones are brought into jury boxes, the men who want to be jurors for what they can get out of it.

Foreign Language Views Not Radical

Sacramento Bee

That the foreign language press in this country is not devoted to promoting revolution, is the conclusion of the conservative New York Times, based on "a careful analysis" recently made by the Foreign Language Information Service.

This analysis shows that there are in the United States at present 845 foreign language newspapers in sixteen different languages. Of them all, says the Times "only forty-six may be classed as really radical." Further, "very few, even guardedly, advocate the use of violence in bringing about political change."

Coming from the Times, this statement is reassuring.

If the Times classes only forty-six as "really radical," the chances are that less than half that number go further than a mild Socialism, and that the "very few" which "even guardedly" approve violence are a mere handful which advocate precious little violence.

This survey proves once more that the vast majority of our new citizens are just as loyal as those whose grandfathers were born here. And it also shows it is as silly to accuse a paper of Bolshevism because you do not understand the language in which it is printed as it is to accuse a man of Bolshevism because he wears whiskers, or a woman of advocating free love because she paints pictures.

More Good Advice

Imperial Valley Press

Again the President happened on an unusually natural theme in his address at Philadelphia Thursday when he declared that the United States is facing the greatest test in its history—prosperity. On former occasions the president has counseled more attention to idealistic things, a greater reverence for religion and the need for nation-wide education.

In pointing out the dangers of prosperity he touched in a large way upon a condition with which all of us are thoroughly familiar. Few but have known some friend struggling along in moderate circumstances, who suddenly experiences what he considers to be the blessing of great wealth. It changes him in every respect so that instead of proving a blessing it often proves a curse, depriving him of the finer and more valuable attributes which he knew in his less prosperous days.

So with the nation. It does not take a Solomon to realize that much of the fineness which existed among Americans in the days when they were battling the forces of nature to maintain life, has become dulled by the ease and security which are ours as a result of our prosperity.

There is need for a general tightening up of moral and spiritual forces, and it is this that the President would have us take to heart from his address.

We may not approve of some things Calvin Coolidge does and his methods may not always be to our liking, but on the occasions when he delivers a public address he is just what he is—a conscientious, honest, God-fearing old New England farmer, giving counsel and wisdom from his experiences to his children.

IF YOU MUST TRAVEL WITH THE BABY, BE CAREFUL

Most specialists in diseases of children when asked about traveling with a baby are likely to say "Don't." However, if the mother persists, the doctor is willing to help with instructions for the proper care of the infant and of its food during the progress of the journey.

Whenever possible, the baby is to be kept on its usual diet. This is simple if the mother is nursing the baby even during a few feedings, but most difficult if the infant is fed entirely on artificial mixtures. If it has been fed on a raw milk texture the milk is to be boiled before the trip is started. If it is impossible to carry milk in fluid form, evaporated or powdered milks may be used.

Change Ahead of Time

If it is known that the journey is to be taken and the child's dietary habits are to be changed, the new foods should be established at least a week before the trip is taken. All water given to the baby while traveling, including that used to make milk mixtures, must be boiled.

The food mixtures should be boiled at least for ten minutes and then placed in individual bottles containing not more than two feedings. The bottles should be packed in ice with the tops of the bottles covered so that the ice cannot touch them.

On reaching the train, the milk mixtures may be placed in the icebox of the dining car or the buffet car, unless an icebox such as exists in drawing rooms or compartments is available. On the train the bottle can be warmed before feeding by putting it in a cup of warm water, which is available on most trains, or which may be carried in a thermos bottle if the journey is a short one.

Boiling Nipples
Nipples should be boiled and kept in a wide-mouthed, well sealed bottle for application just before the child is fed.

Most modern hotels in large cities are provided with accommodations for infants and will provide on request suitable cribs, electric heating stoves for use in the room, boiled cerea, and certified milk. With this equipment, it is possible for the mother to prepare almost anything that is necessary when an emergency arises.

All your fortune stays behind.

Spend for trinkets, new and gay,
Soon their worth will fade away.

All that money will return.

Spend for things which reimburse

Thanksgiving--And Why

When the hardy men and women of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, 259 years ago, set aside one day in the fall for offering thanks to Divine Providence for the blessings they had received, a disinterested observer might have remarked that they really didn't have a great deal to be thankful for.

To be sure, they had managed to wrest a living from the inhospitable New England forest. They had repelled or made friends with the hostile tribes of Indians; they had established their little colony on a firm footing after many trials, and the ever-menacing danger of famine and want had been pushed, temporarily at least, into the background.

Yet all of those are things which we today would number among the bare essentials of existence. The colonists were a mere handful of strangers, nesting on a tiny section of a mighty, unexplored continent. They were governed by a corrupt and cynical court, far across the ocean. The bravest of them, looking to the future, might well have doubted if the Massachusetts Bay Colony would ever be anything more than an isolated colony; the odds seemed all against any very extended spread of civilization on these newly-opened shores.

Despite all of this, however, the old New Englanders set aside a day for thanksgiving and feasting; and today we follow the ancient custom and do likewise.

Suppose we compare our position with theirs for a moment. The last of the wildernesses has been tamed, as far as we are concerned. The remaining redmen are content on reservations, or else are drawing fat royalties from oil wells given them by the Great White Father in a moment of temporary aberration. The threat of famine has been removed, although it is rumored that here and there in this great land Salvation Army soup kitchens are doing business today. None of us need fear anything more terrifying than indigestion today; domestic and foreign enemies have vanished, the country is at peace and the problems that vexed our fathers are no more.

No wonder, then, that we celebrate Thanksgiving.

But wait; there is more to it than that. The members of the Massachusetts Bay Colony came to this country, not chiefly for material gains, but for certain intangible spiritual ends. They were willing to penetrate wild forests and defy painted savages, and to die thereby, if need be, in order that they might have room for their souls to grow. And the wellsprings of thanksgiving that moved them to make a holiday came not only from the arrival of relative prosperity, but more especially from the feeling that at last they had found complete freedom—freedom of spirit as well as of body, freedom in which their most sacred aspirations and ideals could flourish unchecked.

It might be interesting for us to assign a statistician or two to see just where we stand today in that regard. If we offer thanks merely for our well-filled stomachs we are allying ourselves, not with the Pilgrim Fathers, but with the swine.

But if we give thanks in the same spirit our forefathers gave thanks, the holiday has value for us.

CURRENT COMMENT

By CHESTER H. ROWELL

WASHINGTON officialdom is in a quandary what to do with a statue of Frederick the Great which once stood prominently in front of the War College. When the war came the statue was stored in the basement, where it has been gathering dust ever since. Now after ten years of peace, there are petitions to exhume the monument, which must either be granted or denied. Probably what will be done is to bring the statue out, but set it up in some less prominent place.

OF COURSE the mistake was to pull it down in the first place. Frederick was never an enemy to America. Rather, he was the friend of the young republic then just starting. As one of the great soldiers of all time, his place before the War College was appropriate. The Germany which we fought did not even exist in Frederick's time. He was King of Prussia, but in other ways was scarcely a German. The great King doubtless could speak German, but he always refused to do so. All the books in his library, still preserved, are in French, and the conversation of his court was in that language. Even if we thought we had to boycott everything German, including the part which we had nothing against, Frederick could scarcely have been included. At any rate, pulling down his statue was much like boycotting Beethoven's music, and those who did it deserve the embarrassment to which they are put in deciding where to restore it.

WASHINGTON is the "dog." Before a play faces its dreaded "first night" in New York they try it out a week in Washington. They see how it goes, before a reasonably sophisticated and partly metropolitan audience, and work off the rough edges. Billie Burke is doing it just now in a new play of eighteenth-century life, called "The Marquise." If it "takes" in New York, it will be because Billie Burke carries it. The play has about as much intellectual, emotional, and artistic content as the average movie, and is as artificial and unreal as if it had been written in the time which it depicts. Wisely, it depends on bright dialogue, instead of attempting to compete with the movies in action and scenery, and, well acted, it gives a light evening's entertainment, which you forget the moment you get outside. If that is enough for a New York success, and the door for a run on the road, the trial on the "dog" is favorable. Watch what the New York critics say next week.

EVEN the New York Herald-Tribune gets all wrong on the inheritance tax controversy. It characterizes the Federal estate tax as an "intrusion by the Federal government into a field of taxation which ought to be reserved to the states," and describes the states as resisting that invasion. Actually, the resistance all comes from those who do not want the right exchequer by the states. There are three states which do not want to levy this tax, and some others which wish to levy it only in nominal amounts, and there are of course private interests in all the states which do not wish it levied at all. It was these, and these alone, which came to Washington to "defend this source of revenue to the states." Not one of them wanted this source of revenue, for the states, stantial amounts, for the states. Every state which does want to exercise this right, favors the Federal estate tax, to protect it in doing so. The whole crusade is for the right of the states not to assess this tax, and is conducted by those who do not want it assessed by anybody, state or nation. Those who take this attitude should at least be more frank about it.

THE grandchildren of the babies of today, says Professor Edward Aisworth Ross, in a book just published, will in 60 years fill the world so full that it can hold no more. Within one lifetime, the human race will increase in numbers more than it has done in the perhaps 2000 generations in which it has been spreading over the planet. "Without realizing it, the pathologists and sanitarians are greater revolutionaries than Gracchus, Danton and Lenin." Unless we meet it earlier, the grandchildren of the now oncoming generation will have to meet the problem. Professor Ross favors birth control and the restriction of Oriental immigration.

IN SOME ways the problem is already on us. The characteristic modern man lives in the city, not in the country, and New York is becoming increasingly the type of the city. The birth rate in New York is going down, but not so fast as the death rate. The real wonder is that any children at all are born in New York City. It is no place either to bear or to raise them. They have to be born in mass-production hospitals, raised in apartments or tenements, and play in the streets or not at all. There is a controversy now over a law forbidding cooking in a whole class of apartment hotels. Millions of people in New York have "homes" in which even cooking and eating are prohibited. The "family" is meaningless, under those conditions, and children and old people are a nuisance. If the whole world becomes crowded until its living conditions are like those of New York, the race suicide, which Professor Ross recommends will take care of itself.

The Woodpecker

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THE woodpecker is common to temperate latitudes and because of his decided markings is easily recognized by the children. It is easy to find and a good post of tree bored full of holes in regular rows where he has been feeding. He clutches the side of a tree and bracing himself with his stiff tail, pounds with his head like a riveter, boring holes so that he can thrust his long tongue into the bark and so get the insects and grubs hiding there. He also bores and digs a hole for his nest in a dead tree or post and in it his family are as snug and dry as in any house.

RAT-A-TAT-TAT, tat-tat, tat-tat.
Oh rat-a-tat-tat, tat-tat.

It sounds like a drum.

Bar rum, bar rum.

But it's from a tall tree

That the tippie come.

It's a red-headed woodpecker

Hunting a grub.

Rub-a-dub-dub, dub-dub, dub-dub.

A rub-a-dub-dub, dub-dub.

Trim in a suit of white and black

Set off with a scarlet cap.

He bores in the bark

With his strong brown bill

A-hunting for grubs

Till he gets his fill.

Then he feeds all his babies

After their nap.

Oh rap-a-tap-tap, tap-tap, tap-tap.

Rap-tap-tap, tap-tap.
